SEA FIGHT RUMORED

St. Petersburg Hears That Two Russian and Four Japanese Battleships Are Sunk.

SIAMATSZA'S BRAVE DOCTORS

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

Hai-Cheng, Manchuria, June 11.—(Delayed in transmission.)—A flanking movement of the Japanese around the Russian left from Fung-Wang-Cheng, June 9, was repulsed with a loss of two whole battalions.

A large Japanese force moved out in the morning along the Fung-Wang-Cheng and Hai-Cheng road. The Russians had a force strongly posted in a ravine 30 miles southeast of Hai-Cheng. The Japanese were preceded by two battalions who walked into the Russian ambuscade. They received a murderous rifle and artillery fire at close range and were wiped out, only one or two escaping.

The main Japanese force, which was greatly superior to the Russian force, tried to outflank the Russians, who drew off without losing a man. The Japanese, closing in, found the ravine vacant, save for their own dead.

Naval Fight Reported.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 12.—The capital is filled tonight with rumors that a great naval battle has been fought off Port Arthur and that two Russian and four Japanese battleships have been sunk. The rumors cannot be confirmed.

LONDON, June 12.—The Standard's correspondent at St. Petersburg says he hears that a telegram from Vice Admiral Skrydloff states that on June 7 he went within 30 miles of Port Arthur with the Vladivostok fleet and there ran into a fog. He found several Japanese torpedo boats and two battleships which attacked him fiercely, and inflicted some damage. The Russians returned the fire but, as none of the Port Arthur ships appeared, Vice Admiral Skyrdioff returned to Vladivostok, where he arrived Friday morning.

The Daily Mail's correspondent at Japanese headquarters telegraphing under date of June 11 says four strong Japanese columns have occupied Suenchow, Siamatsza, Liaowaling and Siuyen. Suenchow is 85 miles east of Mukden, and Liaowaling five miles northwest of Siuyen.

Surgeons Were Heroic.

LIAO-YANG, June 12.—Ensign Marlioff, who has returned from the battle of Saimatsza, fought on June 7, says that the Japanese lost about 300 men. He speaks in the highest terms of the work of the Red Cross doctors, Poosen and Bentesh, who attended the wounded under fire. When the order came to retire, these doctors refused to leave the bandaging station until the last of the wounded had been brought in and attended.

After the battle a wounded Russian was found with his tongue cut out and his fingers severed. There is a general disinclination to attribute this mutilation to the Japanese after the kindness which they had previously shown to the Russian wounded, and it is thought to be more probable that it was the work of Chinese bandits.

It is alleged that, during the engagement, the Japanese again misused the Red Cross by getting within 400 yards under its cover and then firing volleys.

Reports of the Siuyen fight of June 8 say that the Japanese lost 100 killed and the Russians one killed and 21 wounded, including two officers.

Forcing Kuropatkin's Hand.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 12.—(Special Cable, Herald Copyright.)—The continued persistent advance by the northern forces of the Japanese has given rise to the theory that Gen. Kuroki may be extending a grand attempt to cause Gen. Kuropatkin to retire before a sweeping enveloping movement, as foreshadowed yesterday, in the taking of Saimatsza simultaneously with the occupation of Siuyen.

It is being pointed out that the taking of Saimatsza means that the Motien pass, so strongly held by the Russians, has been turned. The whole idea of forcing Gen. Kuropatkin to give battle under unfavorable circumstances, with the alternative of retiring, is to give ample time to the Japanese forces in the Kwan-Tung peninsula to starve the Port Arthur garrison into surrendering, thus avoiding the enormous loss of life, with very doubtful result, which an attempt at taking the place by assault means, and before which the eminent Japanese military advisers of the mikado recoil.

The only news today is that Gen. Kuroki's combined forces are slowly but surely pushing forward, building roads as they go, while the total absence of news of a reliable nature from the Kwan-Tung peninsula is regarded as demonstrating that the Japanese are engaged in operations demanding the utmost secrecy, showing the closing of their grip upon Port Arthur.

300,000 Men in the Field.

It is now ascertained that the Japanese have 12 divisions of their active army in the field, which are added to by a considerable portion of the reserve, making a total approaching 300,000 men.

Relief is felt in military circles at the removal of dissension in the military councils. It is understood that the sole responsibility devolves upon Gen. Kuropatkin and that no serious attempt will be made to relieve Port Arthur.

It is reported that the Vladivostok squadron now consists of three cruisers and four ironclads. It is therefore presumed that the squadron has effected a

FREEDOM FOR PERDICARIS

Release of American and His British Stepson Expected Wednesday.

TRIBUTE TO BRIGAND

Former Writes Letter Praising Personal Qualities and Fasinating Manner of Raisuli.

LANGERMAN TELLS OF VISIT

[Special Cable to The Gazette.]

London, June 13.—The Tangier correspondent of the Daily Mail says that Raisuli has received the sultan's letter concerning his demands and that unless the bandit formulates fresh conditions, the release of Ion Perdicaris and his stepson, Mr. Varley, may be expected Wednesday next.

"I learn," says the correspondent, "that Raisuli is suffering from nervousness and insomnia and is greatly depressed by the desertion of two of his important adherents. An unconfirmed report from Mogador states that a German has been kidnaped in that district."

An extremely interesting letter, written in the brigands' camp has just been received by A. J. Dawson, a well-known traveler and authority on that country, from Perdicaris, who forwards it to the Daily Mail. The letter is remarkable for the whole-hearted tribute it pays to the personal qualities and fascinating manner of the bandit. It is dated Assaradon (Beniares), Saturday, June 4, and runs as follows:

Contents of the Letter.

"Nothing more startling and unexpected than the circumstances of our capture could be imagined. A quiet domestic dinner without guests, the windows open, the table a mass of flowers, then suddenly, like an avalanche, the yelling onset of Raisuli's men—it was a classic scene of rapine and confusion. Nor could it be easy to conceive a picture more wild and gloomy than our forced journey; in fact the libretto was perfect.

"It is easy now to write in this strain when we are assured that negotiations for our release are concluding but during that terrible 24 hours' ride, over rocks and boulders and through dense thickets, where our captors had at times literally to cut their way in order to avoid the villages on the beaten track—well, we had no such consolation then—none of any sort indeed."

After describing the dread which he long had had of being kidnaped on account of his family, Mr. Perdicaris says:

Fears Not Well Founded.

"You may conceive my feeling whilst thus being dragged along by ruffians, who began their amiable attentions by clubbing us with rifles and threatening us with their murderous looking curved daggers. I was astonished to learn that our fears were not well founded. We have learned that Raisuli's chief object is to secure the release of members of his own Kabyle unjustly, or at least, treacherously entrapped and imprisoned by the bashaw of Tangier, a former friend and foster brother of Raisuli, who had trusted this man and had been betrayed. Whatever ill he may have done, the fact remains that he was betrayed.

"The ransom demanded is not so much the price of our release, as the demand for the recouping of the losses inflicted by order of the said bashaw, from whom Raisuli claims payment. Another startling surprise, is to find in Raisuli himself, the most interesting and kindly-hearted native gentleman it has been my good fortune to have known. I like the man, conscious as I am of the injury all at Tangier suffered at his hands."

After dealing with some private matters and referring to the courage of his

BLOODY ROW OCCURS OVER KEG OF BEER

Three Whites Injured by Negroes, One of Whom May Die, at Canton, O.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

Canton, O., June 12.—As a result of a fight between seven negroes and three white men about 6 o'clock this evening, Clifford Boylan, a son of Assistant Roadmaster Arthur Boylan of the Wheeling & Lake Erie railroad, lies at the point of death at Aultman hospital, W. H. Harris is suffering from two bullet wounds in the left arm and leg, and Dan Fitzgerald has severe bruises about the face and head. Seventeen negroes, among them "Bill" Wilson, who is charged with the shooting of Boylan and Harris, are under arrest.

The fight took its origin from a dispute over the ownership of a keg of beer, which is said to have been a ball game bet. The negroes sent a call to police headquarters asking for police protection, and, upon the response of an officer, pointed out the three white men, Boylan, Harris and Fitzgerald, as the offenders. The negroes accompanied the officer across the street to the Wheeling & Lake Erie yard house, before which Boylan and his companion were talking, and in the presence of the officer one of their number made an assault upon Boylan. This negro then took to his heels, and, while the officer was giving chase to the offender, Wilson drew his revolver and opened fire. Boylan was the first to fall, with a bullet wound below his left eye. While he was prostrate upon the ground, it is said, Wilson again shot him, this time in the abdomen. He then turned upon Harris and shot him in the left leg above the knee and in the arm. Fitzgerald was beaten by the negroes when he attempted to assist his companions. The negroes were promptly arrested.

The city authorities met tonight and took steps to prevent a possible race riot.

FATHER AND SON FOUGHT WITH FISTS TO DEATH

Terrible Battle in Cape Breton Bar Room Ends Fatally for Elder Man.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

HALIFAX, N. S., June 12.—Word was received here today of a bare fist fight during the night at Glace Bay, C. B., in which a father was literally pounded to death by his son.

The principals, "Bully" McRae and his son, Jack, are men of giant physique, and known throughout the cape for their fighting abilities. Both are over six feet in height and each weighed about 225 pounds. They met in a bar room and quarreled over money matters. When interference was attempted, the Scotchman drove the other occupants of the saloon from the place, and, locking the doors, fought for an hour, until the elder McRae was dead.

The police finally effected an entrance to the bar room and placed Jack McRae under arrest. The dead man's face had been battered to a jelly, his right ribs broken and chest crushed in. The younger McRae was frightfully injured.

Double Crime of Jealous Husband.

NEW YORK, June 12.—Frederick W. Wagner, 45 years of age, a musician, shot Mary Wagner, his wife, at their home here tonight, mortally wounding her, and then turned the revolver on himself. The bullet entered his left side over the heart and he died instantly. Jealousy was the cause.

Girl Found Murdered.

WICHITA, KAN., June 12.—(Special.)—The body of Miss Annie Jones, aged 18, was found in a buggy five miles north of here, late tonight. There were six bullet wounds in her body. William Ward, an intimate friend, with whom she had been driving, cannot be found.

STEAMER SANK: FIVE DROWNED

A Terrible Loss of Life Narrowly Averted on St. Lawrence.

PASSENGERS ASLEEP

Awakened by Crash of Collision, Officers of Canada Barely Averted a Panic.

TRANSFERRED TO COLLIER

Montreal, Que., June 12.—The Richilieu & Ontario Navigation Company's steamer Canada, bound from Quebec for Montreal, came into collision with the Dominion Coal Company's collier Cape Breton six miles below Sorel, early today. Twenty minutes later the Canada went to the bottom. At the time of the collision there were 110 people on board the Canada. Five were lost, the others were rescued.

THE DEAD.

ALFRED THIBEAULT, ticket agent of the company at Quebec, and his two sons aged 12 and 15.

PURSER BONNETERRE, of the Canada.

—— BRUNOT, of Sorel. He is missing and it is supposed that he perished.

The collision occurred just as dawn was breaking. The Cape Breton lay at the entrance of the Lake St. Peter channel waiting for daylight so as to find her way through. She was getting under way when the Canada, making for Sorel at full speed, came into view. Just what the collision was due to and who is responsible for it has not yet been determined, for the officers of the Canada decline to talk, but, from the statements given out, it would appear that the Cape Breton had not headway enough on to answer her rudder and that she swerved across the path of the passenger boat, her bow striking the Canada just forward of the paddle box on the starboard side and tearing its way half through. Then the Cape Breton swung clear and the two steamers came alongside one another.

The shock of the collision aroused the sleeping passengers. The Canada at once began to settle and, as the Cape Breton did not appear to be seriously damaged, the passengers were hurriedly transferred to this steamer. In the excitement, some of the passengers jumped overboard and were picked up by boats from the Canada and the Cape Breton, but a great majority of those on board were calm and the discipline shown by the crew of the Canada was excellent.

Twenty minutes later, when the Canada went down alongside the Cape Breton resting on her side in the mud, all the passengers who could be found had been transferred. Thibeault and his two sons occupied a state room near where the Cape Breton's bow entered the Canada, and it is supposed that they were killed in their berths. The body of the father was recovered later in the day but the remains of the two sons have not been found.

Bonneterre, the purser, was seen after the collision making his way to his quarters on the lower deck with the intention of saving his cash and his records, and it is supposed that he perished in the attempt.

Assistance arrived about 4 o'clock this afternoon, the steam barge Prefontaine having been found in the harbor with the steam up. The Prefontaine took the passengers and crew to Sorel and they were brought up to this city this afternoon on board the company's steamer Columbian. Many of the passengers who occupied state rooms on the upper deck were fortunate enough to save their baggage, but those on the main deck lost their belongings.

COL. GUFFEY IS WORRIED

Feels That It Is Time to Make Some Disposal of His 68 Votes.

TALKED TO PARKER

He Was Inclined to Turn His Delegates Over to the Judge Until Tammany Objected.

MURPHY IS AFRAID OF HILL

New York, June 12.—Col. Guffey of Pennsylvania is not a little worried over the political situation. He does not want to be a tailender on Judge Parker's band wagon, if the New Yorker is to be the nominee. At the same time, he would rather not help along a man so closely allied with ex-Senator Hill.

While he waits the calendar keeps moving on. In less than a month the convention will assemble in St. Louis. A week or 10 days ago it was the inclination of the Pittsburgher to call a conference of the prominent men in Pennsylvania Democratic politics. He intended to tell them what he knew about Parker and have them decide whether it would be wise to put a tag on the 68 delegates from Pennsylvania and ship them to the jurist who has never given the country the slightest intimation of what he stands for.

This conclusion was reached after Col. Guffey had visited the judge and had been able to form some opinion about the availability of the candidate. About the same time Leader Murphy of Tammany learned that the colonel was inclined to turn his votes over to Parker. The New York boss set to work to at least secure delay.

It happens that Guffey and Murphy are close friends. The Tammany chief explained the situation. He said that he had no particular objection to Parker with the exception that he is too close to Hill. Murphy said that if the Democrats elected a president, he feared that Hill would use his power with the national administration to destroy the present leaders of Tammany.

Effort was then made to find some method of eliminating Hill from the Parker management. So far the plan has not been found and in the meantime many of Guffey's delegates are clamoring for a chance to go on record for the New York judge, because they think that he is going to secure the nomination, and in case of victory in the fall, want to be in a position to grab some of the spoils.

There are also a great many Pennsylvania Democrats who do not want Parker nominated and they are not neglecting to allow Col. Guffey to know this. They point out that so far in the canvass there has not been a word from the candidate to indicate that Parker has any fixed views on any national question. He has shown that he is completely dominated by Hill and Sheehan, who are managing his campaign. Evidence of this is given in an interview authorized by him. It reads: "I will make a statement at the proper time, if I am to make any statement, and that time will not come until after the national convention at St. Louis." The Democrat who is seeking a clean-cut candidate who stands for something naturally gets the impression that the nomination of Parker will be like buying goods without first having the opportunity to examine them.

The Tammany crowd is also talking McClellan to Guffey. They argue that the mayor of Greater New York would make an excellent candidate. One claim is that Bryan and some of the other Democrats, who are hinting at bolting if Parker is the nominee, would come into line for McClellan. Guffey has an idea that if the Democrats can find the right man, there is a chance to win this fall. He has said that having gone along with two forlorn hopes, he does not want to mix with a third. He is really not satisfied that Parker is the right man, but has reached the conclusion that it is time to be deciding upon a landing place, in case his dream should come true in November.

LOVERS SEEK PEACE IN EMBRACE OF RIVER

Couple at Cumberland Believed to Have Committed Suicide Because of Opposition.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

CUMBERLAND, MD., June 12.—William H. Rust, aged 30 years, prominent socially, and Miss Gladys Ann Bright, a handsome young woman, were drowned shortly before midnight last night while boating on Antietam creek near Funkstown, two miles from Hagerstown. Their bodies were recovered today.

They went to the creek, which is a favorite trysting place for young lovers, by trolley car last evening and the general opinion is that they upset the boat for the purpose of committing suicide. Both were unhappy because Rust's parents objected to their marriage. They had been sweethearts for nearly five years.

Rust operated a large cigar store in the Hotel Hamilton. He was a brother of Frank Rust, a well-known traveling salesman, and former clerk at the Hotel Hamilton, Hagerstown.

Miss Bright told a friend a few days ago that "something would happen shortly." Just before going to Funkstown, the couple mailed six letters which, it is thought, will throw light on the tragedy.

Salisbury Postoffice Reported Robbed.

JOHNSTOWN, PA., June 12.—(Special.)—A report has reached here tonight that the postoffice at Salisbury, a small town near Somerset, was entered and robbed early this morning, the thieves blowing open the safe with dynamite. The exact amount of plunder taken is not known here. The burglars are said to have been caught several hours later and placed in jail at Somerset.

LITTLE GIRLS WHO ARE WANTED BY BOTH FATHER AND MOTHER

Helen and Dorothy Phipps, who were taken from New York to Denver by Lawrence C. Phipps, their father.

PHIPPS SAYS CERTAIN PEOPLE SEEK HIS WIFE'S FORTUNE

Mrs. Phipps and Her Advisers Will Try To Secure a Change of Venue from Denver to Pittsburgh for the Divorce Case.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

DENVER, COL., June 12.—Mrs. Lawrence C. Phipps and her advisers have decided to begin their contest in the divorce case by asking a change of venue. First, on the ground that the parties to the suit are not legal residents of Colorado; second, that a prejudice exists against the defendant that would prevent her securing a fair hearing here.

It will be contended, and affidavits introduced, to show that the legal residence of Mr. Phipps, as well as Mrs. Phipps, is Pittsburgh, not Denver, and that the proceedings instituted in the Denver court should be dismissed. It will be held that the home of Mr. Phipps is not in Denver and that he owns by himself no property in Denver. The Phipps house in Colfax avenue is in the name of Mrs. Phipps.

For the sake of the children, an effort will be made to keep the divorce proceedings from becoming known. Mr. Phipps declares that he has had to make charges, but he has no desire to make public an unsavory scandal. He blames others more severely than the defendant, and says the fortune, supposed to belong to her through marriage, was what was sought by certain individuals who have been connected with the case. His lawyers have taken steps to prevent the disposal of any part of the estate. They believe this will bring the other side to terms, without recourse to a protracted hearing in the divorce court.

Mr. Phipps desires a divorce and the custody of his children, with as little notoriety as possible, and his counsel are moving for that purpose.

RUSSIA TRIES TO PLACATE PEOPLE

Diplomats' Opinion of Cancellation of Excommunication of Tolstoy by Church.

CRITICAL STATE REALIZED

By MALCOLM CLARKE.

[Special Cable to The Gazette.]
(Copyright, 1904, by New York Herald Co.)

Berlin, June 12.—In commenting upon the announcement made in St. Petersburg that the sentence of excommunication passed upon Count Tolstoi is about to be cancelled by the Greek church, many diplomats, who have recently kept a close watch on political conditions in European Russia assert that the Russian government, which controls the church has decided upon this course as a concession to the disaffected classes, to which many prominent nobles have recently allied themselves.

The act of the holy synod, in condemning the novelist, has never met with popular approval, and it is held that the government, awakened to the critical state of affairs at home, as evidenced by the recent discovery of a widespread conspiracy, involving many army officers, to dethrone the czar, has decided to make a strong bid for popular approval by restoring the aged count to the privileges of membership in the church.

Count Tolstoy's writings have at various times given rise to warm discussion and only a few years ago his pamphlet, "Thou Shalt Not Kill," in which he admonished anarchists and others to abandon the useless measure of murdering kings, which has never yet resulted in bringing about a reform, but criticised all monarchs for their love of war, was confiscated by the state and the printer and translator charged with lese majeste.

The sentence was not to have been removed until the count had given evidence of his repentance and become reconciled to the church, but the announced action of the holy synod appears to be entirely voluntarily and it is expected by those conversant with Russian conditions that it will have the desired effect and result in quieting in a great measure the dissatisfaction felt against the government, and admit of its undivided attention being given to affairs in the far east.

CENSOR TIGHTENS IN EAST KOREA

Messages Now More Closely Watched Than at Any Time Since War Began.

WONSON EXPECTS AN ATTACK

[Special Cable to The Gazette.]
(Copyright, 1904, by New York Herald Co.)

Wonson, Korea, June 3, (by runner to Seoul, thence via Chefoo, June 12.)—Hitherto the Japanese censorship here has been comparatively easy, but notice was served today that hereafter all messages, either telegraphic or mail, must first be submitted to the commanding officer, then to the Japanese consul, then to the telegraph office censor. This tightening of the censorship on news portends the gravity with which the authorities view the situation here.

Eight hundred infantry and no cavalry or artillery whatever is the total Japanese garrison of Wonson, and these are the only troops Japan maintains on the eastern Korean coast. Lack of cavalry prevents effective scouting. Infantry is useless against mobile Cossack bands forming the principal Russian force for 200 miles to the north.

A thorough sifting of the numerous rumors and reports results in the reliable estimate of 4,000 Russians between here and the Tumen river, about half of them being mounted Cossacks, the balance Siberian sharpshooters with seven mountain guns.

Scouts Not Molested.

Yesterday two mounted scouts approached within five miles of here without molestation and obtained information from Koreans regarding the disposition and strength of the garrison. The small number of the troops prevents the Japanese commander maintaining scouting parties in the Korean villages, as on the west coast, thus permitting the Russian intelligence parties to penetrate easily and safely.

An unfounded rumor today is that 400 Russians are within 20 miles, and this has thrown Wonson into an upheaval of consternation and excitement. The uneasiness is greater even than at Ping Yang early in March, when the Russians were reported close at hand. Official anxiety is shown by the removal of troops hitherto quartered in the town to the surrounding hilltops, where the construction of trenches is rapidly progressing, the natives being impressed by the Japanese authorities to accelerate this work.

The entire town is a scene of indescribable nervous activity. The Japanese population, which ordinarily is 2,000, has been greatly augmented by refugees from the northern coast settlements, agitated by the one idea of flight to the south. Shopkeepers and laborers, great and small, are seen everywhere busily burying valuables and household goods.

Roads Crowded With Refugees.

The road southward is filled with Japanese families on ponyback, disguised as Koreans. A small coaster, the Bochio Maru, is sailing crowded with refugees, every inch of space filled. Many were refused passage, and others are chartering junks.

Meanwhile, an unceasing procession of Koreans from the north streams through the town south-bound. The few European women and children are leaving for an interior city 75 miles south. Reinforcements are anxiously awaited and expected from Seoul and also by transport from Japan.

The Japanese settlement police this afternoon notified the Korean townspeople that they must withdraw five miles outside the town. This order is evidently caused by the Japanese distrust of the natives, who, despite Russian depredations, are still very friendly and eager to assist them. Even the native soldiery, who engaged the Cossacks in two skirmishes in the Ham-Heung district last week, express pro-Russian sentiments stating that, not being white-clothed, the Russians had fired on them by mistake, thinking them Japanese. Afterward the Russians treated them well, paying to the wounded sums which to the frugal Korean mind are princely fortunes.

Many Rifles Seized.

The Japanese authorities seized today 600 rifles and ammunition from Korean soldiers, fearing assistance might be given the Russians, furthermore thus providing arms for the Japanese residents should the town be attacked before reinforcements arrive.

A Korean telegraph official from Ham-Heung declares that the Russians burned the offices and instruments in all the northern towns, destroying similarly many miles of wire and poles. Koreans from the north state that every hamlet, village and town contains Russian scouts, mostly in small numbers, for intelligence purposes, the main force meanwhile remaining at Kyung-Hueng and Hong-Wen. They are thus within easy distance of the frontier on the Tumen river and the Japanese land a superior force attempting to cut off their retreat, with the intention of marching on Vostok.

This committee will hold a meeting tomorrow morning. When the report is made it will state the attitude toward organized labor and what organizations, so there will be no mistake nor any misunderstanding whatever among the union people now working throughout the district.

The other day, it will be remembered, committees visited all of the employers of help and asked them to sign an agreement not to employ any one connected with or affiliated with the trades assembly, the Western Federation of Miners or the American Federation of Labor. The latter organization's name was finally stricken from the agreement and the name of the American labor union was substituted.

Saloons Open Today.

The saloons which have been closed now for almost a week will be permitted to reopen tomorrow morning. Conditions have become quiet enough to permit of it and no trouble is anticipated. Very few arrests have been made at this end of the district, although squads of deputies have been out searching for suspects and many may be brought in yet tonight. It is expected that a big deportation will take place tomorrow and that fully 150 men will be sent beyond the lines of the state.

DENVER, June 12.—A new mining camp will be opened in New Mexico, according to the Post, to receive the deported union miners from Cripple Creek. The Western Federation of Miners will work the claims on a co-operative basis and will have entire jurisdiction over their development. Provision will be made by the federation for all deported miners, and to this end a carload of supplies will be sent to the new camp immediately as a starter.

The camp will be located near Tres Peidera, which is 20 miles south of the Colorado line on the line of the Denver & Rio Grande. There is a district 10 miles square of virgin ore and the work of mining it will be parceled out to the union miners. The miners will be supported by the federation while prospecting.

Where Idea Came From.

According to the story the idea of a co-operative union camp was suggested to Secretary Haywood of the federation by A. Royal, president of the Belle Royal Mining and Milling Company of Tres Peidera, which company owns 80 acres in the district. This property will be purchased by the federation for initial operations.

The particularly active feature of the proposition to send the exiled men to New Mexico was that there they would be amenable to federal law only. Gov. Peabody has been asked to order Gen. Bell to send further shipments of deported miners from Cripple Creek to New Mexico and approves of the plan.

ST. LOUIS, June 12.—Gov. W. J. Bailey of Kansas, who has been visiting the Kansas state building at the world's fair for the past three days, when seen just before leaving for Topeka today, said:

"I will make no attempt to keep the miners out of Kansas, as I believe that any man has a right to go from one state to another without hindrance just as long as he behaves himself as a law-abiding American citizen."

WALLACE, IDA., June 12.—A riot occurred on the Northern Pacific passenger train near Burke, last night, between union miners from the Hercules mine and non-union men from the properties of the Federal Mining and Smelting Company. No one was killed, but several on each side were badly injured. The trouble was the outgrowth of an argument over the Cripple Creek explosion, in which two former Coeur d'Alene miners were killed and several injured.

STRANGE TACTICS BY POLICE ON SOUTH SIDE

Break Open Doors and Climb High Fences to Raid Speakeasies.

Crawling through coal holes, climbing high fences and resorting to other extraordinary tactics, the South Side police raided five alleged speakeasies yesterday and arrested 75 persons who were locked up in the South Side station on charges of conducting or visiting disorderly houses. The police had been unable to get inside of these houses to secure evidence and they resolved yesterday to employ unusual tactics.

At one house, the entrances of which were securely locked, a glass pane in the front door was broken and Capt. J. W. Frederick put his hand through the hole in the glass and slipped back the bolt. The proprietor and visitors were found in a rear room behind a barricade of empty beer cases. Another house was surrounded by a 12-foot board fence. Capt. Frederick and his squad waited until they heard the rear door open and the proprietor come out. In an instant Policeman Lester Williams was hoisted over the fence by his fellow officers.

Before the astonished proprietor could recover from his surprise William Shaw made a dash and was inside the house and had all the inmates under arrest. The raids began yesterday morning as soon as the hearings were over.

The following were the houses raided and the number of arrests made: William Geoghan, proprietor, and 21 visitors; Annie Lawkins' alley, proprietor and four visitors; George Statalowitch and Alexander Krodolowitch, 2527 Carson street, two proprietors and 18 visitors; Peter Babeck, 2423 Sidney street, proprietor and 10 visitors; Peter Ledowitch and Sam Walkowitch, 2323 Carson street, two proprietors, and 23 visitors; Bedila Conoway, 216 Manor street, proprietor and 13 visitors.

Inspector Boyle raided the disorderly house of Reinhart Smith on Second avenue, Glenwood, yesterday and arrested Smith and two visitors.

Horse Frightened By Chickens.

Taking fright at some chickens that were crossing the road, a horse driven by Henry Haggerty of Bellevue yesterday evening ran away just after passing the West View toll gate on the Perrysville road. Haggerty jumped and was unhurt, but the horse continued until it was relieved of the rig by a collision with a pole at a bend of the road. James Stallmeyer of 814 O'Hara street, Allegheny, captured the animal.

Children's Day in Bellevue.

Special Children's day services were held in the Methodist Protestant and Methodist Episcopal churches at Bellevue yesterday. Pupils of the Sunday schools took part in the programs.

JAMES PHELAN IS DEAD AFTER A LONG ILLNESS

Public-Spirited Business Man and Devout Catholic Has Passed Away.

James Phelan, the well known business man, died yesterday at 8:50 a. m. at his home at Bartlett and Murray streets. The direct cause of his death was diabetes, from which ailment he had suffered for 20 years. He was unconscious for two days before his death. Mr. Phelan's death was expected, and when he died his family was at his bedside.

Mr. Phelan was born in Dublin on July 25, 1820, the oldest of 12 children. When he was 8 years old his uncle, then living in Philadelphia, sent for him, and he was put in charge of the captain of a sailing vessel and landed in this country. When he was 14 years old he came to Pittsburgh, was employed in a store in Wood street for a few years, and while quite a young man went into business with his uncle, William Daly, in a building on the present site of the Phelan store. Mr. Daly returned to Ireland after awhile, and Mr. Phelan bought out his interest and continued in the furnishing goods business until 1900, when he retired.

In municipal affairs Mr. Phelan was a public spirited citizen. It is related of him that a few years ago a syndicate wished to erect a big block in Fifth avenue and asked him for an option on his property. He did not wish to sell, but said he would not stand in the way of a valuable improvement, and offered the land for $100,000 less than he could have got for it two years later. The scheme fell through because of the refusal of other persons to sell. Mr. Phelan was one of the incorporators of St. Mary's cemetery and one of the founders of the City Savings bank, now part of the Colonial Trust Company, and the City and Citizens' insurance companies. He was a member of the chamber of commerce and a life member of the Pittsburgh Exposition society. Mr. Phelan was a devout Catholic and was known among his churchmen for many acts of charity and benevolence. He was a parishioner of St. Agnes, having lived in Fifth avenue near the church for many years, and even since his removal to Bartlett and Murray streets he attended mass at St. Agnes'.

Mr. Phelan is survived by Mrs. Phelan, seven children, a sister and two brothers. His children are Jennie, now Mother Xavier and Valette, now Sister Evangelist, both of the Sisters of Mercy of Loretto and Cresson; Mrs. R. W. Stewart, Miss Colfie, William D., R. P. Victor of the Norfolk & Western railroad, and A. X., of Moran, Phelan & Co., contractors. His sister is Mother Magdalen of the Sisters of Mercy of Latrobe, and his brothers, Joseph and Francis, live in the west. He was a brother-in-law of the late William Britton, ex-lord mayor of Dublin. Mr. Dillon having married one of Mr. Phelan's sisters, who died about two years ago. Mr. Phelan will be buried tomorrow from St. Agnes' church.

ASSOCIATED HOSPITALS WILL GET MONEY TODAY

Distribution by a Committee of the Annual Saturday and Sunday Contributions.

The Hospital Saturday and Sunday association of Pittsburgh and Allegheny will make its annual award today. The distribution was arranged by a committee consisting of Prof. W. W. McCullough, president of the association; Mrs. Theodore Stonerod, president of the Ladies' association; W. J. Robinson, first vice president of the association and Dr. T. M. Ryall of the executive committee. The award is based on the number of free residents treated in each of the associated hospitals for the year ending June 1. The report of the commitee was as follows:

Hospitals	Free days.	Amount.
West Penn	35,284	$ 2,540 00
Homeopathic	26,308	1,820 00
Allegheny General	11,409	790 00
St. John's	7,956	550 00
Children's	6,295	440 00
South Side	5,076	348 89
Presbyterian	1,561	166 96
Free Dispensary (office privilege)	.....	75 00
Totals	93,800	$6,641 00

This is a decrease from the year ending June 1, 1903, of $1,449, due to financial stringency. Despite this, the amount distributed is greater than any other year except 1903. In 1896 the total was only $1,800 48 and this year two hospitals each receive a greater sum than the total received eight years ago. Every day in the past year 230 patients were treated through the efforts of the association, without counting any of the thousands who received dispensary treatment, but were able to remain at their homes.

The officers of the association are very well satisfied with the result under existing conditions and have adopted a resolution thanking the public for its generosity in hard times.

MUSIC IN THE PARKS.

Instrumentalists and Singers With Vaudeville People Entertained Crowds.

It was Italian day yesterday at two of the traction parks, at least, and Sunny Italy was well represented both on the music platform and in the audiences at Oakwood, where the Regina Elena band held forth, and Calhoun, where the Berger Carnival Concert band was directed by William J. Cameron.

In addition there were the Fonti Bonf brothers, an Italian team of entertainers, at Oakwood, with the H. J. Lindsay quartet. Calhoun had Lynn Welcher, a storyteller, Princess Chinquilla of the Cheyenne Indians, and 254 Newell, musicians, and McDevitt and Kelly, a team of comedy singers. Southern park had the Eighteenth Regiment band, directed by William H. Rodgers, the Lone Star quartet, Will Haskins, "the country fiddler," and Horace Mentzer, "the man of many faces."

The Homestead Library band played afternoon and evening at Kennywood to appreciative audiences. Several solos were played by the band members. The vaudeville bills for the week at both Southern and Kennywood include first-class people.

Baby's Cries Caused Woman's Arrest.

For almost an hour last night neighbors heard a child crying in the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Norton, Aurelia street, and finally the police were notified. Patrolman Frank Lynch investigated and found that the cries came from the 4-months-old baby belonging to Mrs. Norton's daughter. The grandmother was so intoxicated that she was taken to the East End police station. The child was turned over to the matron.

Troops Departed Early.

The regiments participating in the Hawkins monument dedication, which remained over Saturday night, left the city early yesterday morning. The last to leave were the Third, Ninth and Thirteenth, all of which went via the Pennsylvania railroad.

TWO BATTALIONS ANNIHILATED

junction with some of the Port Arthur vessels.

The Russian government has not yet returned an answer to British Ambassador Hardinge relative to his government's protest at Russia's declaration that rice and other foodstuffs are contraband of war, but there is no intention on the part of the government to make modifications to meet the British view.

Precedent in Boer War.

The protest is based on the rule observed by Great Britain during the Boer war that even foodstuffs destined for a hostile country could be considered contraband of war only if intended for an enemy's forces.

Diplomatic circles are interested in the attitude the United States will adopt in the matter.

TOKYO, June 12.—(Special Cable.)—The transports which have been leaving many Japanese ports in the last few days are now understood to be carrying reinforcements to Gen. Kuroki in Manchuria in order to enable him to check the expected forward move of Kuropatkin to the relief of Port Arthur.

No one here believes the Russians will succeed in breaking through the Japanese line, and even if they should, the reinforcements now being rushed forward would enable Kuroki to fall on the rear of the advancing army and cut it to pieces.

It is hinted, however, that the real reason for the reported reinforcing of Kuroki is a threatened flank movement on the part of the Russians whose real object is said to be not the present relief of Port Arthur, but the destruction of Kuroki's army. Little fear is felt here that the Russian move will meet with even the slightest success as the greatest confidence is reposed in Kuroki's skill and alertness.

Russian Losses at Nanshan.

The military commission assigned to bury the Russian dead in the battle of Nanshan hill at Kinchau, May 26, presented its final report today.

It was found that 10 Russian officers and 664 men who fell in the battle had been carefully buried, and 30 men were buried by the outposts, making the total number of killed left behind by the Russians 704.

Rear Admiral Togo reports that on Tuesday a part of the fleet bombarded the west coast of the Liao-Tung peninsula near Kai-Shau, and drove back a military train that was approaching southward. No trains have been seen since. The enemy was driving in troops and throwing up works, evidently expecting a landing of the Japanese on that point and making all preparations to prevent it. Small gunboats sent close in by Rear Admiral Togo bombarded the Russians at work, and it is believed caused considerable damage.

Hard Fighting at Port Arthur.

CHEFOO, June 12.—(Special Cable.)—Vessels arriving from the neighborhood of the Liao-Tung peninsula bring news of continuous hard fighting on the peninsula, the garrison having ventured sharp sorties several times in the last two days, inflicting severe losses on the attacking arm, but being driven back to the shelter of the forths each time.

The heavy fire of the Japanese has, it is said, resulted in great damage to the Russian fortifications and the dismounting of several big guns, Oku having occupied positions which command the forts and town and enable the Japanese to deliver a destructive fire.

A report which cannot be verified tells of a Russian battleship which had ventured out of the harbor in pursuit of a Japanese torpedoer being compelled to return to the harbor in an apparently sinking condition. The report does not mention the cause of the vessel's injury and her name cannot be learned.

THREE MORE VICTIMS OF AUTO PLEASURE TRIP

One Killed, One Fatally Hurt and Girl Injured in Collision With Locomotive.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, June 12.—Rounding a curve at Van Cortlandt park this afternoon a train on the Yonkers division of the New York & Putnam railroad crashed into an automobile, owned by George Noakes, a restaurant keeper, who lives in Riverside drive. Frank B. Read, a paper manufacturer of Yonkers, was killed, the 16-year-old daughter of Mrs. Noakes had her left foot cut off by the train, and John Spencer, the negro chauffeur, was so badly injured that it is believed he cannot recover. Mr. and Mrs. Noakes and their 8-year-old son escaped with a few bruises.

The train was hidden by a heavy clump of trees as it approached the Van Cortlandt park station and just as it came into sight from the crossing, the automobile came swiftly along toward the tracks. It was impossible then to avoid a collision, and hundreds of persons on the golf links, which parallel the tracks, saw the heavy touring car demolished.

Mr. Read's body was picked up 40 feet from the crossing. He had struck on his head and received a compound fracture of the skull and many bruises about the body. He did not regain consciousness and died soon after being taken to Fordham hospital.

The young girl was the only one who was not thrown from the automobile. She was in the middle seat and when the locomotive struck the car she was carried on with it. Her foot dragged along the rail and was run over and amputated and her leg mangled by the engine. Her body became wedged in the wreckage, and before she could be released parts of the broken automobile had to be unscrewed and unriveted. At the hospital it was found necessary to amputate her crushed leg.

Mr. and Mrs. Noakes and their young son, after being thrown from the car within a yard of the golding ground, and their injuries were slight.

Spencer, the chauffeur, was also thrown onto the grass, but one foot had been crushed and it was necessary to cut it off at the hospital.

CONSTABLE PUTS BALL IN PRISONER'S BREAST

Officer Was Looking at Revolver Taken from Hungarian and Accidentally Shot Him.

Constable W. L. Langham of Whittaker township yesterday afternoon accidentally shot and fatally wounded George Batowitch, a Hungarian, aged 19. The wounded man is in the McKeesport hospital with a bullet in his breast. The physicians say he cannot recover.

Accompanied by W. G. Miller, constable of Mifflin township, Langham went to the outskirts of Duquesne and Whittaker for the purpose of arresting the crowds of men and boys who have made it a practice of gathering there on Sundays. Finding Batowitch and two companions firing with a revolver at a target the constables placed the trio under arrest.

While walking back toward Duquesne Constable Langham started to examine the gun taken from the Hungarian. He pulled the trigger, not knowing the weapon was loaded, and the ball lodged in Batowitch's breast, close to the heart. Langham will surrender himself to the county authorities today.

Two Arrested and One Discharged.

At the Allegheny police hearings yesterday, James McIntyre of Robecca street and Joseph O'Hara of 1200 Ridge avenue were charged with being suspicious persons. They were arrested yesterday morning on suspicion of robbing a man at the Union bridge. O'Hara was discharged, but McIntyre was sent to jail for 20 days in default or a $5 fine.

Homestead Minister Installed.

The Rev. A. J. Collison, who is to fill the pulpit of the Homestead Reformed church, was formally installed as pastor yesterday afternoon. The committee in charge of the installation ceremonies included the Revs. Paul S. Leinbach, Albert C. Diefenbach and A. B. Bruignan.

PITTSBURGH BUSINESS STEADILY INCREASING

Sixty Per Cent of Charters Taken Out Since March 1 Are for This Vicinity.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

HARRISBURG, June 12.—The depreciation in the value of stocks and securities and the falling off in the business of the railroads and other large corporations in Pennsylvania apparently has not effected the corporation business in the state department.

More charters are now being taken out at the department of corporations than were taken out in 1902, when prosperity was at its height. Most of the charters now being taken out are for manufacturing and mercantile companies in the smaller cities and towns of the state.

Charters were granted to 382 corporations during the three months ending May 31, 1904, an increase of 61 over the charters granted during the same period in 1902. Several charter applications, including that of the American Dye Works of Philadelphia, which is capitalized at $2,884,000, are pending.

Sixty per cent of all the charters granted are for corporations doing business or about to engage in business in Pittsburgh and the cities and towns within a radius of 20 miles of that city. The capital of these concerns ranges from $5,000 to $100,000.

Comparatively few charters are being granted to street and steam railway corporations, probably because all the available routes were covered by the charters issued under the Pocht-Emery trolley franchise acts of 1901. Seventy-five per cent of the companies chartered under this legislation have surrendered their charters because it was found by the promoters that lines could not be conducted profitably over the routes which they covered. More than $1,000,000 was received in bonus by the state from the companies chartered under these acts.

DAUGHTER OF GEN. BOOTH ELDER IN DOWIE CHURCH

Services Were Held in London. Crowd Follows Zionist Leader to His Hotel.

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

LONDON, June 12.—All day long crowds have been in the vicinity of the Zion tabernacle, on Euston road. John Alexander Dowie arrived at 10:30 o'clock, had his meals inside the tabernacle and remained there throughout the day. While three services were held, the attendance was confined strictly to ticket holders.

Towards 9 o'clock tonight Dowie ventured to leave the building with his wife and son, and the long waiting mob with frantic efforts dashed to their cabs, while reporters in hansoms joined in the chase over a circuitous route to the Hotel Cecil. It is said that Dowie obtained rooms at the hotel by withholding his name, but that he has been requested to leave in the morning.

At the evening services Mr. and Mrs. Booth-Clibborn, the latter the eldest daughter of Gen. William Booth, founder of the Salvation army, were ordained elders of the Zionist church.

The co-operation of the mine workers is due to the kind spirit shown by the asylum in offering to care for the orphans made parentless by the mine explosion at Harwick. President Dolan had announced that the miners were prepared to show appreciation in a substantial manner.

ACTION ESSENTIAL.

Directors of Thiel College Will Be Asked to Decide Fate of Institution.

GREENVILLE, PA., June 12.—(Special.)—A meeting of the board of trustees of Thiel college has been called by the president for Monday, June 20, at Greenville, and it is expected that a warm discussion will be precipitated when the effort is made to settle the fate of the institution for good.

It is imperative that the affairs of the college be straightened out before September, if the college is to be continued. The question has now resolved itself into either the abandonment of the college or making a new start in Greenville.

To assist in putting the institution on its feet again the citizens of Greenville have raised $10,000, which will be placed in the hands of the local committee to be expended as they may consider advisable. A call for the regular annual meeting of the alumni association has been issued by President W. C. Pettit, Esq. The meeting will be held in Trinity Lutheran church, Greenville, Wednesday afternoon, June 15.

FREEDOM FOR ION PERDICARIS

wife and the mental anguish she has endured, Mr. Perdicaris expresses the hope that some good will come of the trouble to Tangier and its people.

He then proceeds:

"Meantime you must not worry about us. I am writing this at the mouth of a handsome tent placed at our disposition by Moulai Ali, the wazzani shereef. The brightest episode of our detention here was our first sight of his and his brother Moulai Ashmet's caravan, accompanied by an armed escort. Signal guns fired by these Kaybiles, leagued in defense of their rights under Raisuli's leadership announced the arrival of this welcome relief expedition, which we saw later on winding along the hillside.

"Moulai Ali himself has remained with us ever since. Indeed he and Raisuli dined with us every evening in the tent. The climate is admirable and a better site for a camp would be hard to find. Our release will be very welcome, but it is at hand now so you must not pity us too much."

TANGIER, June 12.—J. W. S. Langerman, commisssioner of the Moroccan section of the St. Louis exposition arrived here today from the camp of Raisuli, the bandit. In an interview, Mr. Langerman said:

"I left here by steamer for Arzila in company with a friend and three Moors, the object being to see Raisuli and try to arrange the present difficulties. I met Raisuli and his band, fully armed and suspicious of the visit. For a few moments the situation was critical, but all passed off well. Ion Perdicaris, the American whom Raisuli holds captive, is much better and in good spirits over the prospect of his speedy release."

WASHINGTON, June 12.—One or more of the American men-of-war now assembled in Mediterranean waters, it is possible after their services at Tangier is concluded, may go as far east as Turkey. Officials decline to say just what the program of the administration is as to the future movement of the vessels in this regard, but they say that the cruise in the Mediterranean of some of the vessels will be extended eastward, and the inference is given that they may touch at some Turkish port. The United States is aiming to secure for certain American institutions and missions in Turkey the same privileges that the government of that country grants to the missionary and educational institutions of other countries.

Odd Fellows Make Arrangements for the Dedication of Grove City Home.

Plans for the dedication of the Odd Fellows' home at Grove City were discussed yesterday afternoon at a meeting in Mendell's hall, Allegheny, of representatives of lodges in Allegheny county. Fully 25,000 people are expected at the ceremonies and enough coaches were arranged for to make up 18 special trains.

The dedication will be held on July 21 and all kinds of amusements are being arranged for. Principal among the features will be an ox roast. The Grove City company of the Sixteenth regiment will give an exhibition drill and the occasion will be taken advantage of to make a presentation to Past Grand Master Samuel A. Steele of Wilkinsburg of a jeweled badge, said to be the finest ever presented to an official in the state.

FOUR MEN ARRESTED FOR JOHNSTOWN HOLD-UP

Pittsburgh Man Thought to Be Implicated in Desperate Attempt to Steal $7,000.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

JOHNSTOWN, PA., June 12.—With the arrest of Richard, William and Joseph Jackson of this city and Joseph Born of Pittsburgh, the police of Johnstown and Somerset county are positive that they have secured the men who attempted to hold up Supt. W. H. C. Ramsey and Frank Howard of the Johnstown Water Company, while they were carrying $7,000 to pay the employes of the Dalton run dam. The four men were arrested early this morning, the three brothers at their home and Born at the dam.

Immediately after the attempted holdup yesterday afternoon, Lieut. Patterson of the city police, and several plain clothes men, hurried to the scene. There they found the spot in the woods, at the side of the road, where at least four men had been lying. An inquiry among the farmers brought information to the effect that the Jackson brothers of Johnstown had been seen lurking in the woods.

The police immediately telephoned to headquarters in this city and a detective was sent to shadow the home of the Jacksons. About 3 o'clock this morning the men were seen coming home, tired, dirty and much worn.

[Special Cable to The Gazette.]

LONDON, June 12.—Frank W. Heilman, M. D., of Kittanning, Pa., has arrived in London, after having traveled in Africa, Spain, Sardinia, the Azore islands, Italy, Switzerland, France and England. Dr. Heilman will soon be leaving for Berlin where he intends to do some work in medicine and surgery. After a stay of some six or eight months in Berlin Dr. Heilman will go on to Vienna, Heidelberg and Leipsic, for the same purpose, and will remain in Eurore for some considerable time yet. Dr. Heilman, who is as well known in Pittsburgh as in Kittanning, is the son of William M. Heilman, who is a large stockholder in the Kittanning Plate Glass Company, and an extensive lumber dealer in Pittsburgh.

Mrs. A. W. Mellon and Miss McLean of Pittsburgh have arrived in London and are staying at the Carlton hotel for a few days before traveling on to the continent, where they intend to spend the summer.

A. R. Fraser and E. B. Haworth of Pittsburgh have arrived in London and are staying at the Savoy hotel. These friends have just returned from a long tour through Scotland, the Lake district in the north of England and other attractive spots.

H. A. Laughlin of Pittsburgh is another among the American visitors staying at the Savoy hotel.

Among the visitors from Pittsburgh who have arrived in London and are staying at the Hotel Cecil are George H. Coburn, J. H. Cary, O. D. Glim and C. A. Baiph.

S. H. McAuliffe of Pittsburgh is one of the American visitors now staying at the Savoy hotel, London.

Italians Fight Near Cemetery.

During a free-for-all-fight among a dozen Italians in Loretta street, near Calvary cemetery yesterday morning, Carmine Marabalo, aged 25, was slashed across the back with a stiletto. The police are searching for John Airle who is said to have inflicted the wound. Marabalo was taken to Mercy hospital and a half dozen witnesses are being detained at the Oakland police station.

ONE STEP MORE

Will be fatal to the sleep-walker. Will he draw back or will he take the final, fatal step? A great many people are in peril like the sleep-walker. They are diseased. The disease is progressing day by day. The time comes when one more step away from health is fatal. The man who has suffered from indigestion or gastric trouble goes some night to a dinner and returns home to find he has taken that last step from health which can never be taken back.

To neglect the cure of indigestion or some other form of stomach trouble is dangerous. It is also inexcusable. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It purifies the blood, stimulates the liver, cures biliousness, and eliminates bilious poisons from the system.

"The praise I would like to give your Golden Medical Discovery I cannot utter in words or describe with pen," writes Jas B. Ambrose, Esq., of 1205¼ Mifflin St., Huntingdon, Pa., "as I was taken with what our physicians said was indigestion. I doctored with the best around here and found no relief. I wrote you, and you advised me to use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I took three bottles and I felt so good that I stopped—being cured. I have no symptoms of gastric trouble or indigestion now."

If you ask your dealer for "Golden Medical Discovery" because you have confidence in its cures, do not allow yourself to be switched off to a medicine claimed to be "just as good," but which you did not ask for and of which you know nothing.

You can get the People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, 1008 pages, paper-covers, free by sending 21 one-cent stamps, to pay expense of mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

HOUSES OF GOD WERE DEDICATED

Inaugural Services Held in St. Stephens R. C. and Brushton M. E. Churches.

A $20,500 DEBT CLEARED

When the dedicatory service in the Brushton M. E. church began yesterday morning a debt of $20,500 hung over the church. When the exercises were over the building was free from debt. During the three services $13,100 was raised and the balance pledged. The dedication proper was held last evening with the Rt. Rev. Bishop Earl Cranston presiding. The Rev. Dr. E. L. Eaton preached the sermon. Music was a feature of all services. The Rev. Dr. T. N. Boyle spoke in the morning on the financial situation, and in answer to his plea $13,500 was raised. In the afternoon the Sunday school and Epworth league rally added $1,000, and in the evening $1,600 was raised. A platform meeting was also a part of the afternoon meeting which was addressed by visiting clergymen.

St. Stephen's Roman Catholic church, Second avenue, Hazelwood, was dedicated yesterday with inspiring services. Exercises began at 10 o'clock in the morning with a processional of 23 priests headed by the Rt. Rev. J. F. Regis Canevin, coadjutor bishop of the Pittsburgh district. Solemn high mass was celebrated by the Very Rev. J. E. Boyle, assisted by many distinguished priests. Bishop Canevin then preached an impressive sermon. The pastor, the Rev. D. J. Devlin, who has had charge of the congregation for 25 years was the recipient of many congratulations in succeeding in raising necessary funds for the erection of the handsome new edifice. He will celebrate the silver jubilee of his pastorate on July 9.

St. Stephen's congregation was established in 1871 with a membership of 25, which has grown to over 600. The new church is constructed of stone and buff brick, has been erected at a cost of $70,000, is modern in every detail and stands on a lot 190x445 feet.

In the evening Bishop Canevin confirmed a class of 800 persons. The music during both services was Gregorian and was most impressive.

Jubilee and thanksgiving services were held yesterday in the new Sheraden Methodist Episcopal church, which has just been completed at a cost of $25,000. The Rev. Dr. T. J. Leak preached in the morning and W. H. Thompson in the evening. In the morning jubilee services were held by the Sunday school. Addresses were delivered by T. B. Phillips, W. A. Clark and the pastor, the Rev. W. D. Slease. Formal dedication will take place next Sunday, when Dr. W. H. W. Rees will preach the dedicatory sermon in the morning. Bishop C. B. McCabe will preside in the evening.

The corner stone of the Hungarian Reformed congregation of Homestead was laid yesterday with imposing ceremonies and a special musical program. The exercises were conducted by the Rev. D. A. Souders, assisted by the Revs. John Ujlaky and Alexander Harsanyi. It is expected that the building will be ready for use in August.

UNION MEN ORGANIZE NEW POLITICAL CLUB

Only Young Members of Labor Societies Can Become Members If Charter Is Granted.

A meeting was held yesterday afternoon by the young men in the Fifth and Sixth wards of Allegheny for the purpose of organizing a Republican club, which will be rather unique in character. At the preliminary meeting every man present was a member of some labor organization, and already there are representatives of 45 different trades among those who are taking part in the work. One of the requisites for membership is that the candidate belong to a labor organization.

It was decided to apply for a charter for the club, the name of which has not yet been decided on. It will be of a social as well as a political nature and will be strictly Republican.

At the meeting William J. Trischler, president of Union 20 of the Journeymen Barbers' union, was elected president and P. Conrad of the stone masons' organization, secretary. The members have already secured a permanent residence which contains eight rooms. The organization will be modeled a good deal on the lines of the Young Men's Republican Tariff club.

MEMORIAL DAY COMMITTEE CLOSED UP ITS BUSINESS

The general Memorial day committee held a meeting Saturday night and closed up its business as far as possible. A resolution was adopted thanking the speakers, singers and others who gave their aid at the Memorial day services. In view of the inclement weather, the committee thought that a formal recognition of the assistance given the veterans was in place. The auditing committee will meet on Friday night in the hall of Post 3, Fifth avenue, when the bills will be considered and put in shape for payment. Part of the expenses will be met from the appropriation made by the city for this purpose.

ZIONISM'S AIMS WERE EXPLAINED

Mass Meeting at Bijou Theater of Boomers of Jewish State in Palestine.

PROMINENT ZIONISTS SPOKE

Zionism and its objects were the themes of orators at a mass meeting held in the Bijou theater last night. A large audience was in attendance and applauded the speakers, who spoke in favor of the establishment of a Jewish state and nation in Palestine. During the meeting a collection was taken for the benefit of the Zion institute at Center avenue and Green street, the old McCandless homestead, purchased two weeks ago for $15,000.

Prominent Zionists from other cities inspected the institution during the day and examined into the functions it has undertaken. It is primarily the headquarters of the 14 organizations in the county and classes in Jewish literature, Hebrew, Jewish history and ethics are taught. The meeting was presided over by Henry Jackson, who dwelt on the high aims of Zionism and introduced Dr. Leon J. Magnes of Cincinnati. Dr. Magnes said it was asserted of Zionists that they could not be good Americans and at the same time desire the establishment of a Jewish state. Persons who used this argument confounded the conceptions of people, state and nation.

Want a Country.

The Americans, for example, were not a people yet, although they would be in time; they were, however, a state and nation. The Jews were a people and a nation and the Zionists desired to erect a Jewish state. The Jews were the cause of the existence of ethical monotheism, but they were not now necessary to the preservation of that conception. Those who were informed on the history of monotheistic literature knew that nowadays the Jew contributed nothing to that literature; it was discussed in universities and pulpits perhaps better than the Jews could now discuss it. The Zionists realized that if they wished to contribute anything of value to the religious life of the world it must be a Jewish contribution; therefore there ought to be a Jewish land, government and institutions.

Dr. Harry Friedenwald of Baltimore, president of the American Federation of Zionists, said the kernel of Zionism was the Zionists' glory in the past, confidence in the Jewish future, in a word, national self-confidence. The Zionists looked with pity upon those Jews who had lost themselves in the ocean of cosmopolitanism and assimilation. If it was desired to preserve Jewish ethics the Jews must be preserved, and to carry out the historic mission of the Jewish people there must be a Jewish state.

Record of Shame.

The Jews had been called the leaven of humanity, scattered as they were through the world, but the leaven should not be allowed to sour.

"Resettle Palestine," he said, "rejuvenate the Jewish people, and then again shall go forth from Zion the law for the people." Schools where the Jewish religion could be taught amid surroundings that would cultivate the Jewish heart were an imperative need, he added.

The Rev. S. Edward Young of the Second Presbyterian church, in his discourse said he wished he could offer adequate apology for those of the Christian faith who had tortured those of the Jewish faith; to apologize even inadequately he would have to come clothed in sackcloth and with ashes on his head, crawling and licking the dust; even thus he could not atone for the shameful record of the Christian peoples against the people of Israel.

Clarence I. de Sola, president of the Canadian Federation of Zionists; Jacob De Haas, secretary of the American Federation, Rabbi A. H. Ashinsky and A. H. Fromenson of New York made addresses.

The Nossokoff orchestra played an overture and accompanied the singing of the Zionists' hymn by the audience, and Jean de Backer played a violin solo and an encore.

Temperance Women to Meet.

The Allegheny County Women's Christian Temperance union will hold its quarterly meeting tomorrow in the Homewood Presbyterian church, Homewood avenue and Bennett street. There will be sessions at 9:30 a. m., 2 p. m. and 7:45 p. m.

FRIENDS SAW BOY DROWNED

Sidney Creese Sinks While His Brothers Look On—Strange Death of Twin Babies.

YOUTH ACCIDENTALLY SHOT

While swimming in the Allegheny river off the Pittsburgh shore, under the Union bridge, Sidney Creese, aged 15, of Clifton avenue, Allegheny, was drowned in front of his brothers, shortly after 7 o'clock last night. His body was not recovered although his brothers and other companions made many attempts to find it.

The boys were bathing all afternoon. Young Creese was seized with a cramp while in a deep pool. He sank, calling to his brothers for help. There were a number of other boys in the party and all swam into the pool to save him. The boy did not come to the surface again. They dived and searched all around the place where Creese sank. Their efforts were unsuccessful. His brothers wrapped up his clothing and went home to their parents. Their father, David Creese, went to the Point and engaged several rivermen to search for the body.

The death of two children of Mrs. Michael Hertchmak, who lives in the rear of 525 Carson street, was reported to the coroner last night. They were twins and died within half an hour of each other. Mrs. Hertchmak said she was startled by the cry of fire at night in the vicinity of her home, two days before they were born, which was nine days ago. It was said the babies died of inanition.

George Kern, aged 17, who was accidentally shot by William Bussey in Greentree borough June 8, died at his home Saturday night. Kern was assisting the Bussey family to move. William Bussey was placing a shotgun in the wagon. He did not know it was loaded. The weapon was discharged and the contents entered Kern's body. He was a son of Mary Kern.

Mrs. James Cuyer died suddenly last night at her residence, 7431 Washington street, Swissvale. Mrs. Cuyer had been in poor health for some time but was not under a physician's care. Last night she suddenly became ill and before aid could be summoned had expired. She was 51 years old.

Mrs. Andrew J. Sharp, aged 40, died at her home, 5126 Blair street, last night from burns received in a gas explosion at her former home 5140 Blair street, May 21. The gas was leaking in the cellar and Mrs. Sharp went to find the leak. She struck a match causing an explosion. The woman was removed to the Mercy hospital. While in the infirmary her family changed their residence. The woman was removed from the hospital to her new home about a week ago. Saturday her injuries became worse and resulted in her death.

An unknown man was found dead in White Hall tunnel near Bruce station on the B. & O. railroad yesterday afternoon. It was said he had been struck by a train.

Marian Dmuckwski, aged 31, of 103 Fortieth street, died at the West Penn hospital yesterday from injuries received June 9 in the Carnegie mills at Thirty-third street. He fell from the roof of a shed on an ore car.

MORE CHANGES IN BOND ORDINANCE

Third Amending Bill Will Be Introduced in Councils Today.

POLICE WANT VACATIONS

A third ordinance amending the ordinance authorizing the bond issue of $1,122,278 for the payment of judgments, assessments and claims against the city will be introduced in councils today. Since the original ordinance was passed last February two others containing amendments to the first measure have been put in councils. The second amending bill was introduced in select council last Wednesday and referred to the finance committee. It contained changes that are wanted by the New York firm which has bought the bonds.

It has been found, however, that more changes are required, and the ordinance to be introduced today will provide for a change in the title of the original ordinance. Bond-buying firms are great sticklers for technicalities, and the present experience indicates that a large amount of additional legislation will be necessary for the big filtration and hump bond issues which are to be put through this summer if approved by the people on July 12.

Both branches of councils are scheduled to hold regular sessions today. There is a large amount of unfinished business in select council to be disposed of, including the ordinances appropriating $15,000 for the Schenley park race track and $10,000 for the drilling of artesian wells. These are bills which Director Bigelow is anxious to have passed soon. They were held up at the last meeting by the fight over the vacation resolution of the firemen.

If Mayor Hays does not veto the firemen's resolution, as he threatens to do, the police will present a similar resolution in councils, asking for a two weeks' vacation with pay. The firemen are not in the best humor towards Mayor Hays and Director Moore, but they claim the mayor will not veto the resolution. They fear, however, that the mayor may get satisfaction in another way and that the promoters of the vacation movement may find themselves on a permanent vacation in the near future.

The police claim that they are as much entitled to a vacation with pay as the firemen, that their occupation is just as laborious and hazardous as the firemen, if not more so. If the mayor fails to veto the firemen's bill the police will present a resolution to councils at the next meeting. The employes of the detective bureau get vacations every year, and the police employes demand they be put on an equal footing.

Shall Two Cities Be Consolidated?

Whether Pittsburgh and Allegheny should be consolidated will be decided by a debate this evening at 8 o'clock by the Men's Guild of the Calvary Methodist Episcopal church, Allegheny, at an open meeting. The question will be debated by the following members of the guild: Affirmative, G. B. Fitzgerald, W. E. Conroy, J. C. Thoburn; negative, G. F. Freed, F. I. Beck, J. C. Carr.

The Gazette desires to call the attention of its readers who contemplate summer trips to the announcements of the summer resort hotels published on page 8 of this issue.

Marconi's newspaper printed on the steamer Campania is a new step in wireless telegraphy, but not an important one in itself. Mr. Marconi admits the cost of apparatus for communication from shore to shore is too great to admit of the equipment of liners generally. He has, however, demonstrated the possibility of such service in case of necessity and there is a possibility that the process may be cheapened in time. Aside from this service, it has been apparent for some time that vessels of the first class cannot afford to be without the cheaper equipment that enables them to communicate at distances up to two or three hundred miles. There is no probability that wireless telegraphy will soon interfere with the business of the cable companies, but it will become an increasingly valuable adjunct to them.

Russia has removed the ban from Tolstoy. This, it is said, is done in an effort to conciliate the revolutionary party that has lately been giving the authorities much concern. About the only information concerning the internal troubles of Russia that gets to the world at large leaks out through German channels. Some allowance has to be made for prejudice, but there is abundant reason to believe that conditions are serious in the czar's domain. There is a very large disaffected element. It is in many sections, but all have much in common. Since the beginning of the war with Japan the announcements of reforms have been quite numerous. Early in the campaign there were promises and since then there have been actual orders. These give proof of the substantial truth of the German reports of trouble. In this respect the war is likely to be of lasting advantage to Russia.

A bulletin from the department of agriculture tells of the ravages of insect pests and rot upon the crops of this country and Porto Rico and the account is a serious one. There appears to be a constant increase in these untoward influences. The destruction of birds and of forests is at least partly responsible for this state of affairs. But much can be done to counteract the evil influence by the use of insecticides and fungus destroyers. The well-known Bordeaux mixture saves thousands of dollars a year to agriculturists and viticulturists. The arsenates, too, are now generally used by wide-awake farmers to supplement the efforts of the birds. In these matters and in the matter of fighting the scale insects the department at Washington has been of immense assistance to the tillers of the soil. In addition to keeping a sharp lookout for discoveries in all parts of the world, many original investigations are carried on by the department and an excellent system for the distribution of this information is maintained. We cannot have our primeval forests and our farms at the same time, but science helps to give us the forest conditions with the farms.

Military conscription does not become more popular in Europe because it is general. In Germany it continues the source of grave dissatisfaction with the government. Annually thousands of young men flee the country and seek homes elsewhere rather than serve the allotted time in the army. That is the principal cause of the emigration to the United States and annoys the kaiser. In Austria-Hungary conscription is no more popular than in Germany. This fact was forcibly illustrated the other day when a squad of raw recruits refused to return to their barracks and precipitated a pitched battle with the regular troops, with whom they had been drilling. The seriousness of their protest is attested by the casualty list of two killed and 17 wounded. The conscript is not always a good soldier either. In Russia at present the authorities are having experience with him that is not pleasant. He refuses to go to the front. At Kharkoff alone no less than 1,800 soldiers have been thrown into prison for resisting the command to prepare for service. One may readily conjecture that when these unwilling troops are forced to fight they do not prove very efficient.

There is no apparent mitigation of conditions in the Teller county war. The military continues to violate the ordinary rights of citizens in a most amazing fashion, and the union miners continue to defy all authority by employing the methods of warfare. While it is necessary to recognize the fact that the unionists began the outrages, it is none the less deplorable that the state authorities feel called upon to go beyond all reasonable limits in applying the power of martial law. The mine owners and Citizens alliance, too, have exceeded legal limits to a degree almost equal to the dynamite outrages committed on the other side. The destruction of property without the warrant of law, as in the case of the destruction of the Victor newspaper plant, can no more be condoned than the destruction of mining property by the strikers. The deportation of men from the region upon no other charge than that they are members of the union is inexcusable on any pretext of martial law, because it has in it no element of justice. Expulsion from the district could be justified by charges that persons were guilty of disorder or inciting to disorder, but membership in a peaceful organization is not a crime. It has never been claimed to be an offense prior to the disgraceful proceedings in Colorado.

Japanese Going Forward.

Obviously the Japanese have begun operations all along the line and expect to show results soon. The beginning of the rainy season announced last week through St. Petersburg as a probable bar to any advance on the part of Gen. Kuroki's forces appears, on the contrary, to have been a stimulus to set them in motion. They are moving north, northwest and west, driving the Russians out of important positions until they are now within two or three days' march of the railroad line on all roads, or in other words, threatening Gen. Kuropatkin's positions at Kaping, Hai-Cheng and Liao-Yang.

Fresh troops have been landed on the Liao-Tung peninsula between Kin-Chau and Kaiping to protect Gen. Oku's rear from the movement of Gen. Stalkenberg, and unless the latter uses some judgment he may speedily find himself between two forces of Japanese, instead of crushing the Japanese force between himself and Gen. Stoessel. Having control of the sea, ample transport and a large body of reserves, the Japanese are not compelled to abandon positions or plans in order to protect the rear of their columns, but are able to land fresh troops for the purpose.

Gen. Oku has paid no more attention to Gen. Stalkenberg's movement than to notify the general staff at Tokyo. He has devoted his full energy to moving forward against Port Arthur, and is now driving the attack home. He has probably suffered considerable loss in killed and wounded taking the outer fortifications, though the Russians are likely the greater losers during the artillery duels that make up a large part of this campaign. Gen. Oku is continually placing new heavy guns as they are brought up, the Japanese artillery fire continues extremely accurate and the exclusively Japanese explosive, shimose, is proving terribly effective. Port Arthur may not be taken on the 15th, the date set for the correspondents to be landed on the peninsula, but present indications are it will not be long delayed beyond that time. There is still controversy as to whether or not the channel at Port Arthur has been cleared, but the chances are it has not been, and that the heavier Russian vessels are practically helpless.

Another indication of Japanese confidence in the situation is given in the fact that the captured Russian steamer, Manchuria, has been fitted up for an excursion to the scene of war, carrying 60 guests of the navy, including foreign naval attaches. These guests are to be shown the naval bases in Japan, the landing facilities at Chemulpo, Chinampo and the army base at the mouth of the Yalu, as well as the operations at Talienwan bay and Port Arthur. The Japanese navy would not be taking its guests into those waters if they had any fear of capture by the Russian navy.

Too Great a Risk to Take.

Recent experiments in Quitman, Ga., have an important bearing upon Councilman Roenigk's plan of auxiliary water supply by means of artesian wells. Subterranean streams are so abundant in the strata over which Pittsburgh is built that at a moderate expense it would be possible to provide numerous drinking fountains, the flow of which would be always pleasantly cool. Quitman gets its water supply in this way, and recently the question was raised whether it was liable to contamination from percolation of sewage through the soil. Experiments were undertaken by the United States geological survey in conjunction with the state geological survey. Two tons of salt were placed in a bore hole and it was found that the salt permeated all the wells in town. The experiments were very carefully made, the well water being subjected to careful analysis, both before and after the salt deposit and there can be no doubt that the demonstration was conclusive of the fact that even deep wells and springs are liable to contamination from the refuse and filth which pass into the soil of every city.

The same conclusions have been reached by experiments elsewhere. In Baltimore some years ago a spring in one of the small city parks enjoyed a reputation for hygienic qualities imputed to the water because of a somewhat peculiar taste. People used to send long distances to get water from that spring. Chemical analysis showed that the peculiar taste was really due to contamination of the worst description and the spring was promptly closed up. In this case there was no risk of surface contamination and the water must have been affected by substances coming long distances by underground drainage. An exhaustive series of experiments carried on in Europe some years ago proved that bacteria placed in wells could be detected in other water sources in the vicinity.

There is just one way in which a supply of pure water can be absolutely assured and that is by slow sand filtration. It does not simply filter the water, but it also sterilizes it by bacterial activity in the surface layers of the filter beds. It is a waste of money to resort to any other method, and although Councilman Roenigk's scheme is plausible and attractive, it is too risky to be entertained.

A Fortunate Circumstance.

The selection of Mr. Knox as United States senator from Pennsylvania is well received throughout the country. It is, of course, condemned by newspapers who would have been just as free with condemnation had any other course been pursued, but reasonable opinion is marked by a tone of approval. The Wall Street Journal, which is a free critic of the trusts, recalls the fact that when Mr. Knox was chosen for attorney general the Democratic press throughout the country charged that he was a corporation lawyer and had been selected by the president for the purpose of protecting the trusts against the operation of the Sherman law. "Events proved how greatly they misjudged both the president and Mr. Knox." Now the same class of critics are saying that Mr. Knox is being sent to the senate to get rid of him. It is a strange way to get rid of a man to put him in a place of so much power and influence as the United States senate, where he can apply to legislation the skill and ability he displayed in enforcing the law against the trusts. If any legislation is needed to sharpen the law and make it more effective, Mr. Knox is certainly the right man in the right place.

It will be remembered that one of the prime objects in creating the department of commerce and labor was to gather data with a view to the wise solution of the problem of government regulation of corporate enterprise. President Roosevelt, along with an emphatic assertion of the need of control by public authority, has been equally emphatic in pointing out the need of exercising control in a salutary manner. His program was thus stated in his Cincinnati address on the trust problem:

> The necessary supervision and control in which I firmly believe is the only method of eliminating the real evils of the trusts, must come through wisely and cautiously-framed legislation which shall aim, in the first place, to give definite control to some sovereign over the great corporations, and which shall be followed, when once this power has been conferred, by a system giving to the government the full knowledge which is the essential for satisfactory action. Then when this knowledge—one of the essential features of which is proper publicity—has been gained, what further steps of any kind are necessary can be taken with the confidence born of the possession of power to deal with the subject, and of a thorough knowledge of what should and can be done about the matter.

The first part of that program is now well advanced through the work of the department of commerce and labor. A great mass of material in regard to the organization, capital and methods of corporations has been compiled. The basis has been laid for any additional legislation which may be found necessary, and meanwhile that necessity has been pretty well established. Could there be a more fortunate event than the presence in the senate at this juncture of the man who, as attorney general, is familiar with the plans of the administration, the scope of existing laws and the points in which they may be usefully supplemented by additional legislation? Mr. Knox's retirement from the cabinet, far from being any sign of a change of policy, it is an advantageous circumstance for its effective continuation in the field of legislation.

Since Kansas refuses to allow deported Colorado miners to stop in that state, and other states are likely to follow suit, their destination seems very doubtful.

With the heavyweight championship fight this week and the convention next week, believers in the strenuous life have something to look forward to.

The man who figured out that Pittsburgh pays $1,000,000 annually for straw hats is invited to figure on the annual outlay for women's headgear.

The Democrats seem inclined to look for a man who neither talks too much nor too little, thus eliminating both Bryan and Parker.

The Mercer county Democrat who refused a judgeship nomination because it was not unanimous is at least unique.

Talked of in Gotham

By GEORGE C. JENKS.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, June 12.—It is not often that a wail is heard from the professional bookmakers, but there seems to be no doubt that this usually long-headed fraternity has been losing heavily on the turf in the vicinity of New York this season. At Morris park and Jamaica they came out fairly well. At Gravesend they seem to have lost their grip. It is stated that although 100 bookmakers lined up to take bets on the Brooklyn handicap, two weeks ago, not more than 50 were left in the betting ring to take the money of the public yesterday. It is authoritatively declared that only three bookmakers are ahead of the game since the opening of the racing season in the New York district. Two of these three have made their pile by betting on certain horses whose powers and intentions alike they knew, as well as by giving odds against other animals fancied by the great body of horse-wise outsiders. The peculiar feature of the situation is that, while the layers have not made any money, the public has lost steadily, as is the habit of that collective speculator in "good things." Who got the money? No one knows—or, at least, those who do know are keeping their information to themselves. There have been some plungers who have made big winnings from time to time, but they have also had their bad days, and it is hinted when they balance their books they will have to "skin their rolls" deeply to strike a balance. It does not amaze people who do not care for "playing the ponies" that there have been losses all around. It is an article of faith with that class that nothing can be made on the turf by an honest man, just as it is the conviction of students of "form" and devourers of "dope sheets" that it is a legitimate and profitable calling when conducted systematically. The unusual results of turf speculation this spring will have no effect on the amusement as a whole. Men who bet on or against horse races can no more let go than can a "lamb" escape from the Wall street fold so long as he has any wool.

A Rap for a River.

Give a river a bad name, and it will cling to all the settlements along its shores. This has been exemplified in the case of the Passaic river. The dye works and similar factories of Paterson and other towns have been pouring their filth into the stream for years, and its purification is a subject of discussion in every session of the New Jersey legislature, as well as in the municipal councils of the cities concerned. One of the most beautiful residence communities along the river is known as "Passaic Bridge," a station on the Erie railroad. The residents of the place are agitating to have the name changed to "Park Station." They say that the evil odor of the river clings to their village, so that it is prevented from growing, as all healthy little towns aim to do. People looking for a summer home are afraid of the Passaic river, and when they see that a place is called "Passaic Bridge," naturally they associate it with the filthy waters that wash its shores. It is too lovely and healthful a spot to be spoiled by a suggestive name.

How Berries Dodge the Dump.

So much fruit has been spoiled in the New York markets in the course of the week by rain that it is interesting to know what has become of a large proportion of it. Much of it goes to the garbage dump. Inspectors are always on the watch along the shore and in the commission house districts, and when they spy a cargo of wilted strawberries they hustle them to the dump before the owners can prevent them. But inspectors are only human and they cannot be everywhere simultaneously. So hundreds of crates of berries which look a little depressed are carted off quickly to candy factories to be made into fruit syrups. It is found that bruised strawberries are as good for these purposes as any other kind. They do not look well enough to sell for consumption in their raw state, but when boiled down are innocuous. Even when put to this use, there is a heavy loss for the fruit dealers. It has been a disastrous week for many a good man down in West street.

Bands Begin to Play.

New York city spends $50,000 a year for music in the parks. The season began yesterday, two weeks later than usual on account of the rainy weather. It will continue two weeks later in September than in former years. The city pays for so many concerts, and there is never any danger of the people being deprived of their full share. Public music is one thing in which the populace would not tolerate short measure. That sentiment is as powerful in New York as it is in Pittsburgh or any other center where refined taste is in the ascendant, all things considered.

A Little Game With "Reggie."

It is common report that Reginald Vanderbilt is enjoying the peek-a-boo game he is playing with District Attorney Jerome's process-servers. The young man is not destitute of a sense of humor, and when one of the servants at Mrs. Neilson's house remarked that he "had three ways to get out," he was perhaps repeating a chuckling remark by "Reggie." There is serious reason to doubt that Mrs. Frederic Neilson will enjoy it so much when she hears of the attack upon her New York domicile. Whether Reginald really was in the house at all yesterday is another element of doubt in a very interesting story.

They Sympathize With Hannah.

Sunday idlers crowded into Central park, west, today to look at the outside of Hannah Elias' home in as large numbers as last Sunday. The fact that she is in the character of a wronged woman, who was hurled into a prison cell without cause, gives a sentimental interest to her house which was lacking last week. Thousands of people found an excuse to loiter past her house this afternoon, and it was noticeable that 90 per cent of them were obviously in sympathy with her. Many women expressed as much indigation as they looked at the cruelly splintered front doors as if it had been their own homes which had been battered in by the police on the strength of an unwarranted warrant.

When White Wings Grow Weary.

William S. Clarke, superintendent of the Brooklyn portion of the street cleaning department, is a man of ready resource. He has not enough money to clean the streets properly, so he suggests that Brooklyn women should sweep the sidewalk in front of their houses to help out his "white wings."

Those College Jokes.

College societies in this city are failing under the ban of the prosiac, unappreciative police. Four young men were parading Broadway in outlandish disguise, something between Julius Caesar and a circus clown, when they were arrested for "disturbing the peace." They explained to the sergeant at the station that they were going through the initiation ceremonies of a secret society of the College of New York, but they had to continue their initiation in prison cells for the remainder of the night. The police cannot see fun even when it hits them in the nose. Only a few weeks ago a bevy of pretty girls walked backward through a large department store in Brooklyn and created some excitement. Their clothes were all on hind side before, hats and all, and their shoes were on the wrong feet. They were not arrested. Sex counts with the police, even the most unsentimental of them, even if they do not appreciate a joke.

The Quiet Observer

By ERASMUS WILSON.

How are you on figures?

Some folks are great on them while others don't seem to be able to get them through their heads at all.

Almost anyone can manage small figures all right, but small figures are not popular any more, not even among the common people.

Only a few years ago a millionaire was the limit, and the possessor of a few thousands was classed among the really wealthy.

But the people appear to be catching on to the new order of things and talking millions as glibly as they used to talk thousands.

Next after millions comes billions, if the old-fashioned numeration table continues to be an authority.

Who shall be the first billionaire? Are you in the race? It is a free-for-all.

But what's the use struggling for dollars—just cold, soulless dollars? They are only worth what they will purchase of the comforts of life, such as food, clothing, shelter, and a few things on the side. Over and beyond this dollars become burdensome, with a tendency to cause demoralization and social bankruptcy.

* * * * *

Speaking of dollars. If you were offered as many silver dollars as you could count in a day—a workingman's day of eight hours—how many do you think you would have?

In the national treasury department counting 40,000 silver dollars is considered a good day's work.

No doubt you were thinking you would be able to get away with more than double that amount. And yet when you come to figure on it, there are only 480 minutes in eight hours, so that you would have to handle 100 a minute in order to count 48,000.

Nor could you do any better counting dollar notes, even if they were fresh from the printing press.

Even counting 50,000 a day it would take you 20 working days to count 1,000,000.

Fortunately for those who are wealthy they don't have to handle much money—not more than what is necessary to pay car fare and other daily expenses. And, in very fact, many of them do not have any more ready cash than do many of those who are not wealthy, their money being all tied up in some sort of investment.

* * * * *

Speaking of big money recalls the treasury statement for May, which shows a deficit in 11 months of the present fiscal year of something over $52,000,000.

The time was, and within the memory of many who are now living, when such a statement would have caused great consternation throughout the country, and led almost certainly to the downfall of the party in power.

But it passed almost unnoticed, not that it was such a trifling matter that it was not worth bothering about, but because it is wholly accounted for by the heavy payments on account of the Panama canal and the loan to the Louisiana Purchase Exposition Company, amounting in all to $54,690,000. Save for these unusual outgoes, the 11 months would have shown a small surplus. But, for the corresponding period of 1903, the surplus amounted to $78,946,616.

While the government can show big figures the country at large, or even in limited sections, can beat it out of sight. For instance, Europe paid the south $1,000,000 for every day of last year for its cotton crop, an amount equal to the world's output of gold, and that was for only a little more than half the entire crop.

Then the western plains come in with a report of 400,000 head of cattle sent to Europe on the hoof, besides 300,000,000 pounds of beef sent in refrigerator ships.

In addition were several other transactions which run the account into the billions.

* * * * *

Surely this is becoming a great country, and yet so young—hardly a century since the greater part of it was wild and almost unknown.

What of a century hence?

By the way, speaking of the wildness of this country, what has become of the Indians, the wild men of the plains and the forests?

A writer in the World's Work answers this question tersely as follows:

"All of the Indian empire of 1834 to 1854, save the Indian territory, has been organized into thriving political communities, comprising all of Kansas, except the southwest corner; all of Nebraska, half of South Dakota, more than a third of North Dakota, almost all of Montana, Wyoming and Colorado, and all of Oklahoma territory; while Oklahoma, with the Indian territory, will soon be admitted as a state. The tribal relations of the Cherokees, Chickasaws, Choctaws, Creeks, and Seminoles will by act of congress be dissolved by March 4, 1906, and then the vast Indian range (except the scattered reservations) will all be brought under civilized sway. The old 'Indian country' now contains many great cities—Omaha, Denver, Kansas City, Topeka, Cheyenne, and others—and contains in 1904 5,000,000 progressive and prosperous people."

These changes have been hard on the Indian, but he alone is to blame, for in the new order of things he had to either work or get out, and he wouldn't work.

They have even got to figuring the value of education in dollars and cents. According to the Journal of Education:

"The average earnings of uneducated labor are $1.50 a day for 300 days in the year. This for 40 years will amount to $18,000. The average wages of educated labor are $1,000 a year. This for 40 years will be $40,000. Gain for educated labor $22,000 or $10 a day for each day spent in school from primary through high school.

"The demands in every walk of life for men and women educated beyond the elementary school course are certain to be so great in the next generation, and those succeeding, and the educated workers so many that to have an equal chance with others one must be prepared by education to compete. Already one of the largest business houses in America, located in Chicago, has announced that only those who have an education equal to that given by a good high school will be employed by that firm."

It is even possible that sometime experts will be able to estimate the probable value of a man much the same as they used to estimate the value of a field hand in the south during slavery days.

Then instead of merely giving a high school or college graduate a diploma showing that he is schooled up to a certain degree, he will be given a certificate showing that he is worth so much a month or year.

Oh, we are great people, and peculiar people, too. Dr. Winship divides us into three classes, and he is pretty good at working problems in division, either short or long. Here is the way he put it before the National Editorial association in St. Louis the other day:

"There are three distinct classes of Americans.

"First, those at the top, who, by fair means or foul, get there or die in the attempt.

"Second, those at the bottom, who because they cannot get there are against all who do. They are the unhealed wounds of society; they live to tackle and throw everyone who is trying for a touchdown.

"Third, the common people, who have too much self-respect to be disreputable, and too much common sense to pose as thoroughbreds."

Mr. Cleveland's Clever Scheme.

De Witt C. Flanagan of New Jersey says that he asked Mr. Cleveland the direct question, and that Mr. Cleveland replied: "Absolutely, no; under no circumstances would I take the nomination." Mr. Cleveland is apparently determined to make himself popular.—Washington Post.

Just a Matter of Purchase.

A Chicago man offers $100,000 for "the right sort of a wife." Any woman willing to sell herself for $100,000 is about the right sort of a wife for the sort of a man who is willing to buy a wife for $100,000.—Indianapolis Star.

THE AMATEUR PHILOSOPHER.

You mourn because you are not great,
You say the way is dark ahead—
But yonder is the graveyard gate,
Behind it men are lying dead.

Because you are not rich you sigh;
Ill health has dragged you down, you say;
Cheer up, cheer up, you know you'll die
And thus be freed from pain, some day.

You fret because you fear that to
The potter's field you'll have to go—
Cheer up, you're so obscure that few,
In ass you do, will ever know.
—S. E. Kiser in Chicago Record-Herald.

Our New Senator

Philander C. Knox does not come into the United States senate by hereditary right or as the dictator or subservient creature of a political machine. He first won distinction by the practice of his profession, and he was appointed attorney general on the strength of his professional ability. Furthermore, during his tenure of the office he has proved his capacity anew. His conduct of the trust cases has made him one of the most conspicuous members of the present cabinet and secured him great credit throughout the country.—Chicago Record-Herald.

When President McKinley put Philander C. Knox in his cabinet as attorney general, the opponents of the administration were absolutely certain his appointment had been dictated by the trusts. For a long time, while trust litigation was being planned by the attorney general, the same opponents were certain he would do nothing. Now, since he is to retire from the cabinet to accept the senatorship in Pennsylvania, they are sure his withdrawal was due to trust influence. Wouldn't it pay the Democrats to be consistent once in a while, even if they do make themselves ridiculous by sticking to a proposition once put forward?—Cleveland Leader.

Hon. P. C. Knox, attorney general of the United States, will succeed the late M. S. Quay in the senate. Congratulations are in order, though rather to Pennsylvania than to Mr. Knox. No one in Washington needs to be told that he is a man of singular equipment for public life. That fact has been sufficiently demonstrated. In his capacity as attorney general he has made it plain that he is one of the ablest men the government has ever had in its service. Very quiet and self-contained; not in the least dazzled or inflated by official prominence; of quiet, simple manners and unfailing courtesy at all times and in all places, Mr. Knox has presented to us here a novel and refreshing spectacle. Washington is not so familiar with the combination of extraordinary attainment, lofty official position, and unostentatious demeanor as to contemplate this gentleman without respectful wonder. Great public places are on exhibition always, and their successive occupants pass before us in review. We speak with sure knowledge, therefore, when we congratulate Pennsylvania on having Mr. Knox to represent her in the senate.—Washington Post.

When President McKinley called Philander C. Knox to his cabinet there was much criticism. The new attorney general had been a conspicuous "corporation lawyer." Many refused to believe that he could see his duty as a public official differently from his duty as a private lawyer. "How," the critics asked, "can a man who has helped to make and sustain trusts be relied on to regulate and control trusts?" Philander C. Knox made vain all such criticisms. As attorney general he has been neither a fossilized conservative nor a destructive radical. He has hewed straight to the line of public duty. Refraining from persecution that would have brought to the country the dangers of a revolution in industrial organization, he has established that no man, nor group of men, nor form of organization, can be above the laws of the American people. Since the departure of Elihu Root he has been the most conspicuous figure in the cabinet. His retirement will be viewed with regret by all thinking Americans. He goes, however, to a post really greater. To a strong man a seat in the United States senate is a station of power only second to that of the president.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

We must confess a keen, if secret, admiration for Attorney General Philander C. Knox. He has fortitude, courage, plausibilities, and no one has ever charged him with being inconsistent. In the face of the most strenuous demands for immediate and decisive action he has maintained his calm exterior and unruffled presence. Mr. Knox should make a great senator for Pennsylvania and the rest of the country should raise no objection to him. He is a certain factor, a solved problem. His position would never be enigmatical.—Detroit Free Press.

The selection of Attorney General Knox to succeed Mr. Quay as senator is a well merited honor. Mr. Knox's disinterested patriotism was shown when he left a law practice estimated at $70,000 a year to accept a cabinet position paying but $8,000 a year. His ability has been proved by his successful career as a lawyer, and it was especially manifested in his triumphant prosecution of the Northern Securities case, by which he revealed possibilities in the Sherman anti-trust law unknown to preceding attorneys general. His qualities as a statesman have been chiefly manifested in his capacity as an adviser of the president, in his discussions of the trust question, and in his suggestions as to the measures that ought to be adopted to remedy the evils of trusts. There seems good reason, however, for believing that a few years' service by him in the senate will show that he has a capacity for dealing with all great questions of national politics.—Kansas City Journal.

The transfer of Mr. Knox to the senate will add to the interest in the trust question during the campaign. Interest would not have been lacking if no change had been made, but we shall have the trust story now in greater detail than would otherwise have been offered.

A comparison that has already done some service, and is destined now to do more, is between the second Cleveland administration and the Roosevelt administration with respect to trusts. In the campaign of 1892 Mr. Cleveland, through the agency of Mr. Whitney, received a large support from the moneyed interests of the country, and when he appointed Mr. Olney attorney general the charge was made that the appointment had been dictated by those interests. Mr. Olney was a corporation lawyer of great reputation, and the prediction was made that the trusts would lose no sleep with him in the department of justice. Mr. Roosevelt, as we know, owed nothing to the trusts in his elevation either to the vice presidency or to the presidency. He came into both offices unhampered by obligations except to the principals of his party. When death made him president he found Mr. Knox in office, and he asked him to remain. It was suggested in one or two quarters that a change in the attorney generalship would be a good thing; that Mr. Knox, as Mr. Olney, had served leading corporations as adviser, and was therefore not the man for the place, Mr. Roosevelt, however, if he ever heard the suggestion, did not act on it, and the record sustains his judgment in retaining Mr. Knox. They have worked together to the people's advantage on the trust issue and applied a law which was supposed to be a bit of buncombe.—Washington Star.

THE COLLEGE GRADUATE.

Twenty Thousand of Him Starting Out This Year to Make His Way.

A humorous periodical of current date represents the college graduate as setting forth with gay confidence to make the world his football. Here is an old error without even the merit of a new face.

There was a time, perhaps, when college graduates overestimated the value of their training. Then the overconfident inevitably suffered disappointment.

But there is little reason to believe that the typical college man today is inflated with many delusions. As a rule, he knows his training has neither unfitted him for material success nor guaranteed it. As a rule, he knows his education, while not giving him mastery over life, has made him better fitted for life than he would be without it.

And that is the truth. In spite of the arguments of certain reactionaries, there can be no doubt that the more education a young man has, within his natural capacity, the greater his chance of every kind for success. The education does not win him success, for it cannot give him familiarity with practical details. But it puts him in the way of success if he be of the character to deserve it.

There is every reason to believe that the average college graduate realizes with sufficient clearness both the advantages and the limits of his training, and goes forth into life in a spirit that is neither weakly self-renouncing nor valorious. And the 20,000 college graduates of 1904 who go forth in that spirit are the kind of men the world needs.

For the men who really advance and maintain civilization are those who look upon life with neither shrinking fear nor vain confidence, but with knowledge and self-knowledge, modestly and level eyed.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

PERSONALS

"I hear a good deal about freight congestion in this part of the country," said J. K. Folnard, a lumber dealer of Nashville, Tenn., who is here on business. "Down in the Mississippi valley states we have been troubled with the same complaint only on a smaller scale. We don't compare ourselves with the Smoky City in the way of freight tonnage, but we can boast of having struck a pretty hard blow at the railroads. The Mississippi railroad commission took up the fight of the lumber dealers for better car service, and the decision was decidedly against the carriers. In effect, it means that every car of freight must be moved not less than 50 miles every day while en route, and failure to comply with this regulation will cost the railroad $1 each day per car or 1 cent per 100 pounds for less than carload freight. Then there is another penalty for unloading freight after 'free time,' which gives the shippers the long end of the handle. But greatest of all is the amendment to the car service rules, which attaches a penalty to the non-delivery of a car after having been ordered five days. If, after five days, an ordered car is not delivered to the shipper, the road will have to pay a nominal penalty."

"France is fast losing its place as the vineyard of the world," said J. E. Parker, a wine merchant of Paris and San Francisco, who was a passenger on the St. Louis express of the Pennsylvania railroad last evening. "While I am still pretty much in the business in France, the fact cannot be disputed that California as a grape country is assuming first place."

Adjts. E. E. Dennis and Mattie Parker of the local Salvation Army corps left last night over the Pennsylvania railroad for New York, where today they will be present at a large mass meeting. Accompanied by 400 members of the army, they will shortly sail for London to attend the international convention. They were escorted as far as East Liberty by 30 members of the corps.

DESTRUCTION BY PLANT ENEMIES

Report of Agricultural Department Shows Enormous Damage by Scourges and Insects.

SUMMARY OF THE CONTENTS

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, June 12.—The destruction wrought on crops by countless plant enemies throughout the country is revealed by a report issued by the department of agriculture on "Plant Diseases in 1903." Besides the mass of detail regarding conditions in the United States proper, it shows that the coffee leaf blight has accidentally been introduced into Porto Rico and measures are being taken to stamp it out. Cocoa in Porto Rico is affected by a black-pod-rot canker and root disease. The tomato blight has practically ruined the tomato crop of Porto Rico. A potato root rot has caused the loss of nearly the entire potato crop. Orange scab has caused considerable damage in the Bayamon district. Beans and cowpeas are injured by various fungi. The potato dry rot continues injurious in the Hawaiian Islands.

The cotton root rot in Texas prevailed to a greater extent than for many years, the loss being estimated at about $2,000,000. Anthracnose has been generally prevalent from North Carolina to Georgia and locally injurious, especially to sea-island cotton in South Georgia. Wilt continues to spread slowly and now occurs in limited areas in North Carolina and South Carolina and is widely prevalent in South Georgia and southeastern Alabama, in connection with root-knot. Rust occurred as usual on the poorer soils and was unusually severe in Texas.

Enormous Destruction Caused.

The potato blight and rot caused widespread destruction, being especially enormous in New York, Pennsylvania, northeastern Ohio, Michigan and Wisconsin. The damage is estimated at $10,000,000 for the season in New York alone. Walnut bacteriosis caused heavy losses in California. The cherry shot hole fungus was injurious in New York and Pennsylvania, and prevailed destructively in Iowa and Nebraska. Crown-gall is becoming more serious every year as a nursery pest throughout the country. The black rot of grape was more general in Connecticut and Rhode Island, the loss being 40 per cent.

The department is obtaining promising results in its efforts to discover a resistant vine. Strawberry leaf blight is less prevalent. Die-back among the citrous fruit diseases in Florida is less destructive than before 1903. Corn smut caused heavy loss in Maryland and was common in New York. Corn leaf blight was general in Connecticut, Delaware, Eastern Pennsylvania, and New Jersey.

Alfalfa Rust in Ohio.

Alfalfa rust in Ohio and rice blast in the Cooper River section of South Carolina, where the crop was over 100,000 bushels short, did much damage, the loss from the spread of this disease in the past six years being estimated at $1,000,000. Asparagus rust is increasing in the west and important canning districts are badly affected. Watermelon wilt is spreading in the south and cantaloupe leaf blight was injurious, especially in the south, the loss in Florida being 40 per cent. Tomato bacterial wilt was found in Connecticut and it was serious in New Jersey and Maryland and widespread in the south. The fusarium wilt in Florida caused a loss of $500,000 and large areas of land also had to be thrown out of cultivation.

The downy mildew caused large losses in Florida and the trucking section near Charleston, S. C., where the estimated loss was $100,000. It was also unusually destructive in West Virginia, Pennsylvania, New York and Michigan. The bitter rot of apples has been widespread. Injury is reported from Rhode Island, Pennsylvania, Michigan, southeastern Ohio, West Virginia, Virginia, the Carolinas and Georgia. In Nebraska it seems to be on the increase.

Less Injurious in Pennsylvania.

Apple scab was much less injurious in New England, New York, Pennsylvania and Michigan than last year, but it seems to have been more destructive in the west, especially in Wisconsin, eastern Nebraska and Missouri. It is on the increase on the Pacific coast, in Montana, Idaho, Washington and California. Apple canker or brown-rot was prevalent in Connecticut, Ohio, New York and Michigan, causing much damage, especially in neglected orchards. Blackheart, a disease affecting the wood of apple trees, was reported from Montana, Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas and adjacent states.

Pear blight was more than usually prevalent this year in the east. In the south it is universal and little effort is made to control it. In Colorado it has spread rapidly. It is reported from New Mexico. Twig blight, due to the same organism, was serious on apples in Connecticut, New York, Ohio, West Virginia and Wisconsin, but was less prevalent in Missouri. There was an epidemic of pear-leaf blight that defoliated trees from Maryland southward.

Disfigured by Sooty Mold.

In Massachusetts, Connecticut and New York pears and cherries were much disfigured by sooty mold, which followed a serious epidemic of the pear psylla and apple louse. Brown rot was again less injurious in the eastern states, but was very destructive to southern peaches, the loss amounting to from 30 to 40 per cent of the crop in Georgia. Peach leaf curl seems to cause immense losses each year in spite of the ease of controlling it by a single spraying. In Ohio, in Ottawa county alone, the loss in leaf curl was $50,000. The losses in northwestern Pennsylvania and western New York were also heavy.

The department in a report on the principal injurious insects of 1903 says the calendar year showed smaller losses than in many years. Certain pests caused great injury in limited localities, and several new insect enemies of crops were discovered. The Mexican cotton boll weevil, which spread into Louisiana, is stamped as the most important insect pest of the present time. The San Jose scale and codling moth have engaged the attention of many economic workers, and there is a possibility of a lessening of damage in a few years. There were local outbreaks, usually not extensive, of the Hessian fly, chinch bug and of grasshoppers or locusts, cut worms and army worms.

Root-Feeding Species Rampant.

Root-feeding species, such as white grubs, wire worms, root maggots and root-lice, were rampant over a considerable territory. The cabbage and onion maggots were particularly destructive. The two cucumber beetles, orchard scale insects in general, and a few similar pests, were normally troublesome. Billbugs did little damage, which is true of the bean and pea weevils. Shade tree despoilers were only locally abundant. The gypsy and brown tail moths have both enlarged their territory, the latter having become destructive in New Hampshire. The cherry fruit-fly has apparently disappeared, owing to atmospheric conditions, and other pests, such as the squash bug, strawberry weevil, squash vine borer, the potato and tobacco weevils, have not attracted attention. Of insects injurious to stored products there has been a decided increase, especially of the cigarette and flour beetles. Several species of insects, as a rule more destructive in the south, but which have until recently been very troublesome northward, have nearly died out in the north in past years, the list including the harlequin cabbage bug, cabbage looper, cornstalk borers, fall army worm and others. This, however, cannot be said of all localities.

SHUN LIQUORS IN HOT SEASON

Prof. Wiley Also Advises Avoidance or Minimum Use of Iced Beverages.

LESS FOOD SHOULD BE EATEN

The Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau, Room 10, Postal Building. WASHINGTON, D. C., June 12.

What to eat and drink and what not during the hot summer months, is a question to which Prof. Harvey W. Wiley, chief of the chemistry division of the agricultural department, and one of the most noted dietitians in the country, has given years of careful and painstaking study. His researches along these lines and his persistent advocacy of pure food laws, etc., which were finally enacted by congress, has made his name familiar among women as well as technical students and scientists.

Prof. Wiley lays down the essential principle that there must be moderation in all things eatable during the summer months, and, if perfect health would be obtained under the trying conditions of the heated term, there must be absolute denial of alcoholic drinks and cold beverages of the more harmless sort from the temperance standpoint, but equally dangerous in their effect upon the stomach.

"Any extensive use of alcoholic drinks during the summer months should be avoided," said Prof. Wiley to a Gazette correspondent today. "This is especially important for those who are exposed to the direct rays of the sun. Statistics show that in cases of sunstroke the great majority of the victims are addicted to the use of liquor. This of itself may not prove much, however, for the majority of the people seem to be addicted to the use of alcoholic drinks in one form or another.

Not a Physiological Diet.

"There is every reason, from a physiological standpoint, in addition to the mere opinion that it is injurious, why we should put aside alcohol in hot weather. Alcohol is converted into heat and energy when taken into the system in moderate quantities and thus in a time of year when less heat is required, alcohol is not a physiological diet. Again, alcohol, even in moderate quantities, produces a quickening of the circulation and is a strong stimulant. This quickening and the consequent transmission of additional blood to the head, should be avoided in the hot months.

"Iced beverages should be shunned altogether or sipped slowly, not more than a teaspoonful at a time. Pouring large quantities of ice cold liquid into the stomach, where the natural temperature is about blood heat, is contrary to all physiological principles. The shock to the stomach is severe; the pores of the body are immediately stopped up and it requires some time for the system to throw off the effects of this congestion so uselessly forced upon it. Iced beverages sipped slowly, as I have said, may be taken in moderation without danger, but the injury comes from the American habit of drinking great quantities of ice cold liquids, and in many cases, gulping it down so rapidly that the whole body feels the ill effects of the shock.

Made Twice Too Cold.

"As a rule summer beverages should not be below 60 degrees, Fahrenheit, in temperature, whereas it is the American custom to take them at about the temperature of ice, twice as cold as they should be. This is certainly the cause of many of the disorders of the digestive system during the hot months.

"The quantity of food should also be diminished decidedly during the hot weather. One of the principal functions of food is to furnish heat and energy. The lower the outside temperature, the more food is required to produce animal heat. It is safe to say that at least one fourth the ordinary winter diet should be omitted in the summer. A person who in the winter consumes food daily amounting to 3,600 calories would do very well during the hot months with 2,200. The foods peculiar to summer should constitute a large portion of the diet—the various succulent fresh vegetables, according to one's taste. These foods tend to fill the stomach and satisfy to a certain degree the sensation of hunger without producing too great a load on the digestive organism. It follows, therefore, that it is wise to eat less meat, and, in general, less nitrogenous foods. Those who engage in vigorous exercise and outdoor work must have sufficient food to supply the energy consumed and this energy is better furnished by the starches and sugars than by the meats. Persons taking vigorous exercise regularly can safely eat large quantities of rice and potatoes in the summer months, while the protein of his food is better supplied by peas, beans and good bread than by meat.

Fruits Very Desirable.

"Fruits are very desirable if well ripened and not over-ripe. Green fruits and those entering the period of decay should be avoided strictly. Fresh fruits make one of the best portions of man's food during the hot months, but care must be taken to see that the fruit is in proper condition for eating.

"It is impossible to give any advice regarding the quantity of food that should be taken in each case since the size and habits of the individual determine this matter. Those engaged in sedentary employments, however, as well as those who enjoy a summer vacation should be especially cautioned against over-eating. Often all the benefits derived from a vacation are rendered useless by over-indulgence in the pleasures of the table. Too often when off on a vacation and intent on having a good time we find one of our chief pleasures in 'gorging' at the table, because we have little else to do. Simple food is as important during vacation as when engaged in sedentary work at home.

"In general, I would say, avoid alcoholic beverages and ices of all kinds, and make your food principally rice, potatoes, peas, beans and other vegetables. By following these suggestions you will find yourself in far better condition at the end of the summer than you were when it began."

SOLDIER'S BODY IN WATERY GRAVE

Hero of Philippine Campaign Sprang Into Allegheny River from Sixth Street Bridge.

JUMPED IN SPIRIT OF BANTER

Charles O'Donnell, a young newspaper writer of Pittsburgh, early yesterday morning, presumably in a spirit of banter, jumped from the Sixth street bridge into the Allegheny river and was drowned. Never realizing that O'Donnell seriously contemplated such a foolhardy feat, those with him were too late in their efforts to stop him and scarcely realized what had occurred until their friend was struggling in the swift current below and crying for help. O'Donnell was 24 years old and was born in this city.

In 1899 O'Donnell enlisted in the Seventeenth regiment, United States regulars, and served two years in the Philippines. During his service he took part in more than a dozen battles and skirmishes and received honorable mention in the dispatches to Washington for his gallantry. For several months prior to his discharge he was stationed at San Francisco and acted as first sergeant at a recruiting station.

Since his return to Pittsburgh he had suffered from poor health. Naturally of robust frame, he was wasted and weak from the hard marches and exposure to the burning sun of the islands. During the winter he suffered an attack of typhoid fever and was in the St. Francis hospital for 13 weeks.

The events of Saturday and the companionship of his former comrades in the far eastern campaign seemed to exhilarate him greatly. It is said that during the day he declared, laughingly, he would jump into the river. No attention was paid to this, however, as his friends had no idea he would attempt such a dangerous feat. A few minutes before he made the leap he was talking spiritedly of the deeds of the Eighth army corps in the Philippines.

MISSED THE GAP.

Dare Devil Diavolia Has Narrow Escape from a Fatal Accident.

Dare Devil Diavolla, who is "looping the gap" at the United Labor Carnival at Recreation park, Allegheny, met with his first accident during the performance Saturday night. He dashed down the steep incline and half circled the loop, but owing to the hasty manner in which the structure had been set up he failed to cross the open gap in the circle and was thrown to the ground with great force.

Diavolla was picked up in an unconscious condition and for a time it was believed the accident might prove fatal. A physician was hastily summoned and after restoratives had been administered he was revived and appeared to have suffered no further injuries than a severe scalp wound and a bad shaking up. He will continue his performance this afternoon. The accident created considerable excitement among the spectators.

FINE WASH GOODS AND WHITE GOODS

Been a backward season—as much so as any ever known.
Hence, importers and manufacturers have had to sell underprice.
Had to sell this way whether it was the good styles or the poor styles.
Poor styles, of course, sold for less, and many stores bought the poor styles so they could advertise them at little prices.
We took the other tack.
Bought only the choice styles and best qualities from the best makers.
Because choice styles of fine Wash Goods at one or five cents a yard more—when the best are to be had as low as they are now—is the kind that nine-tenths of the people appreciate and buy.
And the last three weeks' business—away ahead of same three weeks a year ago—proves it.
Some of the choice lines and prices are noted below, that will furnish proof and profit to any and all who come.

B. & B.

GAVE COUNSEL TO GRADUATES

Dr. W. L. McEwan Delivers Baccalaureate Sermon to W. U. P. Class.

VAULE OF THINKING RIGHT

A graduating class of 35, including one woman, from the collegiate and engineering departments of the Western university attended the Third Presbyterian church yesterday morning, where the pastor, the Rev. Dr. W. L. McEwan, delivered the baccalaureate sermon. Dr. McEwan took for his text Philippians iv:8: "Whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report. If there be any virtue and if there be any praise, think on these things." The sermon follows:

The advice given in this text is of unusual significance and weight. It was given by one of the greatest men living to a people whom he loved with a peculiar and unselfish affection. After teaching them great truths and urging upon them important duties, he makes the final appeal that they shall cherish high ideals, and names the subjects upon which their minds are to dwell. He urges them to cultivate unity of spirit, humility of heart, to regard themselves as lights in the world. He warns them against false teachings, urges them to constant prayerfulness, assures them that he has counted all things but loss for the excellency of the knowledge of Christ; and then, as concluding and containing the sum of his teachings, suggests them that they are to think upon the things that are true, honest, just, pure, lovely and of good report.

The apostle teaches us in the first place the duty of thinking. The chief purpose of the school life is the disciplining of the mind and the training it to think. The number of facts you have learned, the number of books read, the work you have solved, are all of comparatively so important as the ability to think clearly. The permanent benefit resulting from a university course is the possession of a mind that has been trained to think. Thinking is the most fundamental force in the formation of character. Out of the fullness of the heart the mouth speaketh. Independence of character and forcefulness of personality are the result of thinking. In every department of the world's work that man who thinks and who initiates, is apt to succeed. The majority of men blindly follow leaders in political, social and commercial affairs.

What Controls Life.

It is evident that thinking must have its effect upon the character. Men grow like the things of which they think. The miser has his thoughts constantly fixed on money. It is also certain that the placing too high an estimate on money will make one miserly. Whatever is constantly in the mind as the object of endeavor, will form the character and control the life. There is great danger in these strenuous days and in this busy community that we may lose the spiritual in the material and the unseen. There are business men who frankly estimate the value of an education by the amount of money it can produce. We have come almost to the position where it may be boldly advocated that success in the accumulation of money, or the accomplishment of one's purpose, will excuse the methods by which the end is reached. Men and women cannot be too often reminded that the best things cannot be bought with money.

The years that immediately follow graduation are very important for the young man or the young woman. Every young person who is a worth anything dreams his dreams, like the boy Joseph of old. Every girl has wide spaces in her ideal world into which conventions and sordid motives cannot enter. It is good to dream the dreams, though they never be realized. However many disillusions may come, and however one may have his plans broken by the changes in this world, it can be true even in these days unless we have had high ideals of truth and purity and honor. These ideals are not dimmed by the dust of life. You may not attain the position to which your hopes may have led you, may not accumulate the money for which you hope; you may not reach the heights upon which you have set your eyes, but you may maintain, in its integrity and its splendor, your ideal of goodness and of manhood. At the last day of life, find the ideal brighter and the hope of realizing that ideal burning stronger than even in the impetuous years of youth.

Dignity to the Mind.

The apostle names the high themes, the thinking of which shall be helpful to those who aspire to righteousness and holiness of life. He bids them to think, first, on whatsoever things are true. Truth must be the foundation of all character. The meditation upon the things that are true, upon truth in the abstract and truth in its relation to our own lives, must produce a love of truth and definite efforts to conform to the requirements of truth. Then they are to think upon whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are of dignity and reputation, worthy of respect. No mind occupied with the contemplation of great and venerable objects can grow frivolous or vulgar. The contemplation of things really venerable and truly honorable will give a dignity and a simplicity to the mind. They are to think on whatsoever things are just. The word "just" in the Bible is a great word. It means absolute conformity to the perfect law. To contemplate with our minds steadily the things that are related to the perfect law of God must produce in us two effects. We will be filled with a sense of the beauty of the holiness and the perfections of God; we will also be filled with a sense of our own sinfulness and imperfections. Either we will despair over our attaining to the standard of justice required, or we will be thrilled with the assurance that what we cannot accomplish for ourselves, we may accomplish through Jesus Christ, and, at the last, attain to the righteousness of God. We are to contemplate whatsoever things are pure. Most of the things that men control are impure. To keep the thoughts pure is one of the most difficult of the duties of purity. Purity of heart goes deeper than righteousness of conduct. Purity of thought is more difficult than correctness of speech. It is not possible for an impure heart to contemplate with delight that which is pure, unless there is great desire to grow into the likeness of the pure object. Whatsoever things are lovely are also to be contemplated by those who desire to grow in goodness into the likeness of God. Report, rather than the things of evil report; to think upon virtue rather than vice; to delight in the things that are praiseworthy, rather than in the things that are worthy of condemnation—these are the means by which the character is to be molded.

If you go deep enough into your own heart, you will find that there is both an inability to accomplish and a reluctance to strive after holiness and purity. Just at this point the gospel of Jesus Christ comes with its distinct message. There are many sages and philosophers who have learned by observation and experience to praise virtue and to condemn vice, but none of them is able to tell humanity how it may have the power to achieve what is commended. The gospel of Jesus Christ not only sets the standards for the lives of men, but it promises the power to enable them to reach the standard. Herein it differs from all philosophy and all ethical systems. It not only tells what is right, but it guarantees power to do what is right. Jesus Christ is the great Teacher and example of humanity in spiritual things. He forgives sins. He gives the power to enable men to love holiness and attain to it. Therefore, if you would learn to think upon the things that are true, the honest and good and pure, enter the school of Jesus Christ by becoming His disciple, and learn of Him. He will teach you; He will lead you step by step; He will crown your efforts with success.

LAYMAN DELIVERS BACCALAUREATE

Princeton Hears Graduation Sermon by President Wilson. Old Custom Is Broken.

NOT DEBAUCHED BY GREED

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

PRINCETON, N. J., June 12.—For the first time in the history of Princeton university, a layman today delivered the baccalaureate address, the honor being conferred on President Woodrow Wilson at the request of the students. In the academic procession was ex-President Cleveland.

President Wilson said in the course of his address:

"The vast accumulations of wealth, the vast material equipment of civilization in our day, ought not to mislead us into supposing that this is an age gross and material beyond precedent; more debauched by greed or intoxicated by material power than any that has gone before it. It is not. Though its spiritual impulses and conceptions and undertakings do not run so exclusively along the old, hallowed and familiar ways of religion, as in some noted days gone by—particularly some days that shine bright and illustrious in the early annals of our own nation—the spirit of man has waxed as strong in our time as has his hand, and has given itself to works as mighty and as influential.

"Many pretty books and homilies have been written for us of late in advocacy of a simple life, and beneath their sentiment lies a noble and enlightening truth. There is no virtue in a plain and furnished room; in little circle of employments, a little group of friends is no certain means of grace. The simple life may be very selfish and belittling. The kernel of the moral is simply that our life is greater than the things that we handle and that our life is us, not in our possessions or our social and business engagements."

After saying that God is abroad and not shut in behind conventional walls and that the college man, because of his training, ought to be the best man among men of God, President Wilson continued.

"It is no doubt ordained that the world shall be saved, not only by the foolishness of preaching, but also by the courage of the action and satisfying nobility of unimpeachable conduct, and colleges cannot make serviceable men unless they make men of brains also men of principle."

The exercises of the day were closed by the meeting of the Philadelphia society in Marquand chapel, when the Rev. A. W. Halsey of New York city preached.

DEMENTED GIRL ESCAPED.

Disappeared While Being Taken to Home by a Minister.

The police have been asked to search for Catherine Schaef, aged 19, who escaped from the Rev. Ernest F. W. Bersch, at 1382 Montezuma street, while being taken to the Christian home for working girls, in Eighth street.

Miss Schaef was formerly employed by Mr. Bersch, but about a year ago developed signs of dementia. She was taken to the county home at Woodville and has been kept there until two days ago. By that time her condition had improved so that Mr. Bersch decided to find employment for her in the city.

He took her from the home, but she grew so much worse that she had to be kept under constant surveillance. Last night she started to take her home, but after alighting from a street car in Penn avenue she suddenly disappeared and no trace of her could be found.

PLOT AGAINST SULTAN.

Moorish Ruler May Be Forced to Leave Fez by Movement.

LONDON, June 12.—The Tangier correspondent of the Times, says: "A well organized and a widely spread plot to depose the sultan exists throughout Morocco. It has no connection with the late rebellion, but originated with the religious and educated classes and is supported by many shereefs and other influential persons, including members of the Moorish government.

"The sultan is cognizant of the proposed revolution and may be obliged to leave Fez because he has not the forces to withstand such a universal uprising. The revolution was arranged before the terms of the Anglo-French agreement were known, but that adds fuel to the fire, as the sultan is now accused of selling the country to France."

Second: That the petitioners acquired the same lots or pieces of ground in fee simple by divers deeds and conveyances from William Lecky.

Third: That there is of record in the recorder's office of Allegheny county, mortgage book, volume 1203, page 203, a mortgage given by said William Lecky to Samuel Jones, bearing date the tenth (10th) day of January, 1835, given to secure the principal sum of three thousand ($3,000) dollars, payable January 1, 1838, with interest at six per cento, secured upon the premises above described.

PASTOR RUSSELL PREACHED TWICE TO LARGE AUDIENCES IN CANADA

God's Oath-Bound Covenant With Abraham Was His Afternoon Discourse.

IN ALLEGHENY NEXT SUNDAY

HAMILTON, ONT., June 12.—Pastor C. T. Russell of Allegheny, Pa., preached here twice today to good audiences. Next Sunday he will preach in Allegheny at 3 p. m. His afternoon subject was, "God's Oath-bound Covenant with Abraham and His Seed." His morning discourse was on "Other Heritage of the Servants of the Lord." The text was: "No weapon that is formed against thee shall prosper; and every tongue that shall rise against thee in judgment thou shalt condemn. This is the heritage of the servants of the Lord, and their righteousness which is of me, saith the Lord."—Isa. liv:17. The discourse in full was as follows:

The prophet's words in our text were evidently addressed to natural Israel, the typical people of God, but they apply with increased force to the "true Israel of God," spiritual Israel. Any doubt that might be entertained on the subject is fully offset by the inspired words of the Apostle Paul who, quoting the first verse of this chapter, directly applies it to spiritual Israel, the gospel church, in Galatians iv:27.

These assured that this gracious promise of the scriptures is applicable to us—to us who have fled for refuge to the hope set before us in the gospel—to us who have been begotten again by the Holy Spirit to newness of life, to transformation of mind and hope and aim and object; to us who are new creatures in Christ Jesus, to whom old things are passed away and all things are become new—let us look at it from every side, examine it as we would a rare jewel and gift, for all the exceeding great and precious promises of God's Word are precious to those who are truly the Lord's people. The great gift of God to us is His Son, but He who has given us Christ has with him freely given us all things needful to our strengthening, to our refreshment, to our comfort, to our joy—for the present as well as for the eternal life.

Are Scriptures Contradictory.

As we examine the surface of our text it seems strangely inconsistent with other scriptures both in fact and in the facts we know them. It requires the deeper glances to discern its true meaning and import. Our text applies to the entire church, the body members as well as the Head. Looking at the Lord, looking at the Lord's experiences, at the experiences of the apostles and the experiences of all the Lord's most faithful people from their day until the present, we find that in point of fact many weapons have been formed against them and many tongues have risen against them, and apparently they were sorely wounded by them in the fray. Another prophecy has declared this, saying: "Hide me from the counsel of the wicked, who lend their bows to shoot their arrows even bitter words, looking as they may shoot in secret at the perfect." (Psa. lxiv:2-3-4.) Their "arrows" seem to prosper, for, as the same prophet again declares, "Many are the afflictions of the righteous, but the Lord delivereth them out of them all.)) (Psa. xxxiv:19.) We remember that the Pharisees said of our Lord, "He hath a devil and is mad; why hear ye him?" Sharp "arrows" those for the one who was laying down His life in the service of the world, including His fellow-members.

We remember, too, our Lord's words to the disciples on the subject, assuring them that the servant is not greater than his master, and if they had called the Master of the household, Beelzebub, the prince of devils, the inferiors of the house might expect no better treatment. He said again: "They shall say all manner of evil against you falsely for my name's sake." Rejoice and be exceeding glad for great is your reward in heaven, for so persecuted they the prophets which were before you." The apostles, taking these words to heart, received the poisonous arrows of malice, hatred and strife, declared that such also would be the experience of all who would follow the Master in the narrow way leading to the kingdom of this age. "Yea, and whosoever will live godly shall suffer persecution."—II. Tim., iii:12.

We know that so far as the Lord and the apostles were concerned, these experiences were undeserved. Of our Lord it is distinctly stated: "This man did nothing amiss." Of the apostles the same is true as is witnessed by the entire record. The hatred engendered was because, as ministers or representatives of the light of the new dispensation, which they were privileged to shine, they were hated by those who were identified with the darkness that was being contradicted by the light, and the basis of this hatred and opposition was generally selfish ambition or sectarian or party spirit. For instance, note the words of Caiaphas, the high priest, when determining that our Lord should be captured and destroyed. He said that it was expedient that one man should die rather than the whole nation should perish. This meant that he was so attached to the Jewish institutions as they were and as he considered that the work of Christ would overthrow those institutions and that the outcome would be their nation's ultimate destruction,

LARGER BUSINESS DONE IN STOCKS AND BONDS

Prices Also Higher—Improvement More Apparent in the Standard Railroad Securities—Outlook for Wheat Causes Hopefulness.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, June 12.—In financial markets the week closed more hopefully than for some time past. There was a somewhat larger business done in the stock and bond markets on the stock exchange toward the close of the week and prices were higher. The improvement was more apparent in the standard railroad stocks, particularly among the leading granger issues. The bond market in the investment issues showed steadily increasing firmness, without any buoyancy.

Wall street has now become accustomed to the flow of money from the manufacturing cities to the reserve centers and from there to New York. The reports, therefore, of a further gain in cash of about $6,500,000 during the week disclosed by the bank statement on Saturday did not have the same force as heretofore in telling of the stagnant business throughout the United States. On the contrary, much of the hopefulness was due to the expectation of a good yield of wheat, and the business that would be created by an abundant harvest. In prospect, also, was the dividend and interest disbursement to be made at the end of the mid-year.

In the meantime, the process of retrenchment is going on slowly. Corporations and firms are going along evenly in the general tide, with few breakers in sight. Funds have been provided for a considerable time ahead, and there is no present need to worry. The main question, however, of getting new business—forcing it, in other words—by placing bargains at low prices before the consumer, is not making much headway. Prices of iron and steel goods, with few notable exceptions, are held firm by the leading manufacturers, who seem to believe that the policy of maintaining prices under the circumstances is the better one. They have, however, cut prices abroad, where the trade is not so much to touch and go into the new territory can hardly be commended. It is deep drilling, but when a producer, such as the Brookover has been drilled in, it compensates for a number of light wells.

The Salem district, in Harrison county, the scene of the greatest amount of experimental work, failed to furnish anything better than small producers during the week. When the past week was given a shot and responded by placing 200 barrels to its credit in the first 24 hours. Two weeks ago the same company completed a test on the J. K. Anderson farm, in the same locality, that is holding up at 130 barrels a day. About the same time this well was drilled in the Hope Natural Gas Company drilled in a test on the Enix Anderson farm that is producing 60 barrels a day. There is a large amount of new work starting and completed in this development. The Philadelphia Company has made four locations on the J. K. Anderson farm and the South Penn company has made the same number in the vicinity.

In the fifth sand development, in the old Fairview district, Marion county, the South Penn Oil Company's No. 1 on the M. E. Brookover farm at the end of two weeks is still a fine producer, holding up at 160 barrels a day. As to regularity this territory can hardly be commended. It is deep drilling, but when a producer, such as the Brookover has been drilled in, it compensates for a number of light wells.

WHEAT ONCE MORE CLOSES AT A LOSS

Corn and Oats Are Also Down While Provisions Show a Slight Gain.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, June 11.—Abnormally wet weather in Manitoba helped in a considerable degree in offsetting the effect of liquidation in wheat today, due to bearish crop reports. July wheat, however, closed at a loss of ⅛@⅜c. Corn is off ⅝c. Oats are down ⅛c. Provisions show a gain of 5c to 15c. An excellent weather map and the bearish government crop report were the main factors in the wheat pit at the opening, although an easier tone in foreign markets had some effect here. Initial quotations on July were off ⅛c to ¼@⅝c at 85¾c to 85⅞@86c.

Sentiment in the pit was quite bearish, the majority of traders being disposed to take the selling side of the market. Bidding was very light, trade being chiefly in the way of evening up over Sunday. During the first part of the session the tendency of prices was steadily downward. A number of bearish crop reports were received, which added to the weakness. A prominent factor in the situation was a crop report by the Pacific Railway Company, which stated that spring wheat was fully as advanced now as at the corresponding time last year. The fact that harvesting is well under way also seemed to attract traders to the bear side.

During the last hour the market showed some resistance to the declining tendency. Demand for September wheat was of sufficient volume to cause a considerable advance in that delivery. Advices from Winnipeg to the effect that weather in Manitoba during the last week had been abnormally wet had some influence on late trading. In sympathy with the firmness of September the July option made a partial recovery. After selling off to 85¼c, July closed at 85⅝c. Clearings of wheat and flour were equal to 205,500 bushels. Primary receipts were 283,800 bushels, compared with 305,800 a year ago. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 1,210 cars, against 140 cars last week and 300 cars a year ago.

A number of bearish influences, the most potent of which were the weakness of wheat and a large increase in the movement, tended to create a weak undertone in corn. Primary receipts today were almost double those of a year ago. The weather was also against the market. The volume of business was light, trading being confined mainly to scalpers. The market closed at about the lowest point of the day. July opened ⅛c to ¼c lower at 48⅝ @48¾c, sold down to 48¼c and closed at 48⅜c. Local receipts were 565 cars, with 29 of contract grade.

The oats market was slow, but under the influence of the government report, which claimed a considerable acreage had been lost in total acreage, the price of September was firm. July was extremely dull and weak, giving the appearance of very little remaining open interest. A good cash demand and moderate receipts were bull factors. After opening unchanged at 39¾c, July ranged between 39¼@39¾c and 39¾c and closed at 39½c. Local receipts were 122 cars.

On active covering by commission houses and packers provisions were strong the entire session. The belief still prevailed that eastern capitalists hold a long line of July.

Strength of hog prices was a help. At the close September pork was up 12½@15c at $12 77½@12 80. Lard was 5c higher at $6 95. Ribs were up 7½c at $7 37½.

Republican Primaries in Bradford.

TOWANDA, June 12.—The Republican primaries in Bradford county, held last evening, resulted in C. E. Mill carrying the county for district attorney by a majority of about 600 over Charles M. Culver. G. M. Coons of Canton was defeated for renomination for the legislature by Willard Morse, a young attorney of Troy. L. T. Hoyt and Nathan W. Pendleton, the other legislative candidates, had no opposition. Senator Robert Edgiston will be returned to the state senate.

Steamship in Trouble Sighted.

NEW YORK, June 12.—The French line steamer La Gascogne, Capt. Fourtin, from Havre, has arrived today, reports that on June 11, in latitude 41.05 north, longitude 67.15 west, she passed the British steamer Lux of London, bound from Shields to Philadelphia. The steamer signalled that she had broken her cylinder head and wished to be reported. No assistance was requested.

REVIEW OF THE WEEK IN LOCAL MARKETS

Grocery Trade Good—Produce Business Was Irregular in Volume—Other Features.

Groceries were steady pretty generally during the past week. No changes were made in local quotations although both flour and sugar ruled firm with prospects for advance on the latter almost any time. New mackerel fish will be on the market this week; they were expected some time ago, but were delayed. Cheese was slow, many dealers reporting a big falling off in sales compared with this time last year. All jobbers report slow trade on cereals but general business encouraging. Canned goods moved out well and the supply of various kinds of stock of this nature is becoming very small as the season draws out. This is true of corn especially.

The week was somewhat irregular on produce. Business was heavy at the opening and close, but slow during the middle of the week. Prices were strong until Saturday, when the new stock broke for the first time this season; arrivals of the new stock got heavier but held up firmer than ever. Tomatoes came forward more freely late in the week and this was true of other green goods which were scarce and high early in the week. Several new crop products arrived; peaches, cherries, different kinds of melons, plums came and found ready market. Sales of strawberries were very heavy and prices were northeastern hand, but stock was poor and sales light for the balance of the week. Green corn came in more freely and demand increased in proportion. Pineapples were wanted more than ordinarily and the heavy arrival of new cherries was well cleaned up. Melons sold at low prices and the exceptionally good quality of the stock found for both watermelons and cantaloupes a quick market.

Both butter and eggs held steady during the week and poultry showed better than usual. Springers were quoted lower and this stimulated trade somewhat; hens were wanted about as much as ever. Game was in good supply and smoked meats were in fair request all week and prices are advanced on both California and boneless boiled hams. Few changes took place in the hay and grain line. Hay was about steady with fairly demand for No. 1 timothy; five cars No. 2 timothy sold Saturday at $13 50; oats were advanced Saturday; some sales having been reported at a figure above 47½c. Corn was weak; very little was doing in straw or millfeed locally; receipts were light on everything near the close of the week.

HAY, GRAIN AND FEED.

Receipts bulletined Saturday: Pennsylvania, 10 cars hay, 3 cars oats, 2 cars corn; Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, 5 cars hay, 8 cars oats; Baltimore & Ohio, 9 cars hay, 5 cars corn, 3 cars oats, 1 car feed, 1 car straw.

CHAMPIONS LOOK GOOD.

Boston People Think Pittsburgh or New York Will Win the Pennant.

BOSTON, MASS., June 12.—(Special.)—Manager Buckenberger and the Boston players got together after the avalanche of Saturday afternoon and spoke his mind in good setter. Unless a vast improvement is manifested in Monday's play there will be some radical changes made in the club, and several releases executed. Pittinger at his own request will try and stem the tide against the champion on Monday.

The Pittsburgh team took it easy today, resting their legs after much sprinting around the bases. "Three straight," they said confidentially, as they turned in tonight.

While the experts of Chicago, every National league team club had been seen in work at South End. Some have been rank disappointments and others have shown poorer form than was expected. During Chicago, Boston fans about have been able to size up for themselves the chances in the old league, and if a vote was taken Pittsburgh and New York would be the choice for first honors.

Pittsburgh, despite the reverses encountered thus far, compose a team that on paper outclasses the other National league teams. Hans Wagner is a star ball player, so is Fred Clarke, and with men like Leach, Beaumont and Pitchey, the Pirates should lead the others.

Miller Lynch is almost sure to prove a success, and Flaherty looked good today. Cunlakey letting Flaherty go, however, is a question, and many are inkind enough to say that the veteran Comiskey has sold Dreyfuss another gold brick in the deal.

Tenney is working like a dog for success. His example could be followed with benefit by some of his players who refuse to run out hits. Him of Deleon is in need of three days of log practice, that being his principal weakness so far.

Fred Beier can play the outfield and only the outfield, was shown in the games he elsewhere to play at third base.

Tom Needham continues his promising work, and the young Canada boy is one of the favorites at the old park.

Big crowds have witnessed the Pittsburgh series, and while loyal to the home players, have applauded the great work of the visitors. The fruits of last year's world series is now apparent. Next to Boston the local fans would rather have Pittsburgh win the flag and they especially pick them for a fourth championship.

HARVARD QUARTERS FUMIGATED TO PREVENT MEASLES SPREADING

Bowditch, Bow, Has Disease and He Will Not Return to the Training.

YALE HAS OUTING TRIP

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

HARVARD CREW QUARTERS, REID TOP, CONN., June 12.—To take every precaution against the spread of measles among the Harvard varsity rowing squad, the coaches today had the medical attendants of the oarsmen fumigate the quarters. This precaution was taken after word had been received from John Bowditch, bow of the varsity four, that his disease is measles instead of malaria. He went to the home near Boston yesterday with symptoms of the measles.

There is practically no doubt that he will not return to the Harvard squad this season. He will lose the rugged training of the next 10 days, and will be in no condition to row a hard race against Yale June 30. Several of his fellow oarsmen in the Harvard crews have never had measles, but the prompt precautions taken make it probable that his case will be the only one in the quarters. The Harvard oarsmen loafed about the quarters all day except for a two hours' trip down stream in the launch this morning.

H. S. Thompson of the faculty arrived tonight to help Dr. Nutting conduct the examination of the oarsmen. Stroke Farley of the freshman crew has been called to his home in Boston for two days on business.

YALE CREW QUARTERS, GALES FERRY, CONN., June 12.—Yale's varsity oarsmen had a Sunday outing today on the Thames aboard the Tuscarora, owned by Walter Jennings of New York city. Otto Barnard of New York, another prominent Yale alumnus, was aboard. The oarsmen were ready for Children's day this morning and returned about 1. The rest of the day they spent lounging about their quarters.

Capt. Cross said tonight that the makeup of the eight was by no means settled yet, and more changes are expected this week. Coach Courtney's boat will be tried with the new Davy oar received from Davy of Cambridge, and it will be launched and used in tomorrow's practice. Every Yale oarsman is in tip-top condition.

Interscholastics Batting Order.

The Interscholastic will start as follows today at Indiana: Price, s; Suhler, 1; St. Clair, c; Uptegraff, m; Mackey, 1; Crane, 3; Morfort, p; Bailey, r; Welsh, 2; Shultz, p. If Welsh pitches today Shultz will work the first game at Westminster college tomorrow and either Eastley or Bailey the second game Wednesday.

TWO BIG GOLF EVENTS ARE ON THE SCHEDULE

NEW YORK, June 12.—(Special.)—Two golf tournaments of importance are billed for this week—the women's metropolitan championship at Apawamis and the annual meeting at the picturesque Tuxedo links. The first starts on Tuesday and continues over Saturday, while the Tuxedo meeting begins on Thursday. As regards the women's championship, a conspicuous absentee will be Mrs. C. T. Stout, Mrs. E. A. Manice, however, will defend her title, and, from reports from her game at Baltimore, under George Low, should prove equal to upholding it. Apawamis is essentially a long drivers' course, and for this reason it is to be regretted that Mrs. Stout will be unable to put in an appearance.

O'LEARY RELEASED AND SMITH SIGNED

The Change Risher Has Made on Homestead Team—Scanlon With P. A. C.

GEYER GOES TO ALLIANCE

Manager Risher, after Saturday's game with Ohio Works, made a change in the line-up of the Homestead L. A. C. "Spear" O'Leary, the East Pittsburgh youngster, who has been playing right field, was released and August ("Red") Smith of Jeannette, who began the season with Sharon, was signed. O'Leary has been fielding well, but his batting has been weak, and as Brisbine, too, has been rather weak with the stick, Risher decided to get a man who can wallop the ball. Smith is a pitcher and outfielder. Homestead will play at Grove City college today and tomorrow. These are the commencement days there. "Spider" Mullin will pitch today and Lew Moren Tuesday. Moren will also work Thursday against the Johnstown team, which will make its first appearance of the season with Homestead. Mullin will work the rubber against the New Castle team Wednesday. The game will be played at a picnic of the Homestead business men to be held near Sharon. Friday evening Homestead will play at Swissvale and Saturday afternoon at Braddock.

Pitcher Scanlon, who did not go with the Pirates on their eastern trip, will get in shape for their return by doing some pitching for the P. A. C. team. He will pitch the opening game of the Pittsburgh Lodge No. 11, B. P. O. Elks, on Tuesday evening at 6 o'clock at Friendship park. The Elks have all said and Add Gumbert, Ed Swartwood, Tommy Quinn and Joe Sisson all high-class ball players in their day.

P. A. C. has the Smoky City Giants on Wednesday evening and the Iroquois club on Thursday evening. Bill Totten and Rankin will do the pitching in these games.

Bowman Geyer, the Allegheny boy who has been doing well on the rubber for P. A. C., yesterday accepted terms made by Alliance.

AJAX WINS CLASSIC.

Favorite Takes Grand Prix de Paris. Vanderbilt's Turenne Second.

PARIS, June 12.—Edmond Blanc's bay colt Ajax, by Flying Fox-Amie, today won the Grand Prix de Paris of $40,000, distance about one mile and seven furlongs, this stakes thus accomplishing the rare feat of carrying off three great events of the year, the Prix de Diane (the French equivalent of the English Oaks), the Prix du Jockey Club (the French equivalent of the English Derby) and the Grand Prix. Everything combined to make the occasion an immense success. President Loubet, accompanied by Mme. Loubet, drove in state to the course.

Fourteen horses started for the Grand Prix. Ajax was a hot favorite. The race was closely contested. W. K. Vanderbilt's Turenne, with the American jockey Ranch up, leading almost to the fish, when Stern called on Ajax for a final effort which lasted him some short half length ahead. Third place fell to MacDonald II of Blanc's second string, the unsuccessful derby candidate, Gouvernant, taking fourth place.

WILL HAVE RACES.

Ponies to Run at Washington Park, Chicago, as Per Schedule.

CHICAGO, June 12.—Horses are rapidly arriving at Washington park, and all rumors as to the abandonment of the meeting were set at rest tonight by Secretary Howard, who stated positively that the spring meeting will run, as scheduled, from June 18 to July 16, inclusive.

Secretary Howard announced tonight that no telegraph wires would be allowed on the grounds. High Ball, W. M. Scheftel's American Derby colt, will not come west to start in the Washington park classic next Saturday. Fort Hunter, M. Dyment's American Derby candidate, will be in Chicago early in the week.

POST THINKS WELL OF CUMBERLAND ROAD

NEW YORK, June 12.—(Special.)—Augustus Post, chairman of the touring committee of the American Automobile Association, who has just returned here after a thorough inspection of the routes to be followed in the St. Louis run, gives in his report a very interesting and flattering account of the Cumberland road as he saw it from Wheeling, W. Va., to Cumberland, Md., a distance of 127 miles. The historical reminders of old days still to be seen along the route will fond Easterners, he believes, to the interest of the run, while the motor cars are traveling the famous road which for years was the favorite stage coach route to the west and was the first national highway in the United States.
